No Compromise on Post-

Is Slogan

The effect of sending out notices of the meeting of the East Glendale Advancement Association was apparent in the excellent attendance on the dinner served at the White Inn Wednesday noon, furnished by Mrs. Jack Thomas, and with Charles W. Ingledue presiding, covers being laid for about 35.

The chief business transacted was a vote for permanent organization with annual dues fixed at $3 per year, and the election of a treasurer in the person of Dr.
Henry R. Harrower.

Before any business was taken up, Mrs. E. G. Merring, wife of one of the proprietors of the Glendale Ice Cream company was introduced and asked the support and assistance of members and their wives in a home cooked food sale for the benefit of disabled veterans who have been ordered out of Thomacroft and who want to go up into the Tujunga hills instead of going to the Sawtelle hospital, the sale to take place next Saturday at McBain's grocery store. Her proposition was received with applause which indicated co-operation and patronage.

Reports of committees were then called for, the first being the committee which was appointed to con-

TIMBERMAN'S CALL TO RING THRU' GLENDALE

Hoo-Hoo. Lumber Men to Hold High Convention Here

Hoo-Hoo comes to Glendale.

No, kind reader, this is not the order of any mysterious cult, or soothsayers organization, but it is composed of the best and most substantial men of the country—the lumbermen, who under the wings of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo, once a year gather at some designated point and make merry for a day. And Glendale has been selected for their annual meeting, and Saturday, April 22, has been selected as the date.

Members of the order one hundred and fifty strong will come to Glendale Saturday from all over Southern California to enjoy a day of unalloyed pleasure. San Francisco, Fresno, San Diego and other northern and southern cities will send large delegations to Glendale.
The entertainment of the visitors will be in charge of prominent lumbermen of Glendale, Eagle Rock, Burbank, and such live wire as George Bentley of the Bentley, Schoeneman Lumber company, the Fox-Woodsum Lumber company, and other local concerns. And it lacking to make the visit of the stranger Hoo-Hoo one that will ever remain green in their memory.

The Hoo-Hoos will gather at the old adobe in Verdugo Woodlands at 2 p. m., Saturday, where the festivities will start including games, etc., and also some surprises, it is hinted. A barbecue at 5:30 will conclude the day's events at Verdugo. After the barbecue the Hoo-Hoos will go to the chamber of commerce room in Glendale, where a class of about thirty kittens will be initiated into the Black Cat Order, which, even Hoo-Hoos admit borders considerably on the line of mystery, but from which the candidates go out wiser and better men, and they are content

WATER DEPARTMENT POINTS TO WASTE

Citizens of Glendale are wondering what the table on the reverse side of their water bill for this month means. It is merely a table showing the reason for some of the water bills that are apparently overcharged. Superintendent of Plant and Production P. Dieterich says that the high charges on the bills are not due to a mistake in the readings of the meters but are caused by leaks in the water mains supplying the house.

To prove this statement he submits the table on the reverse side of the monthly water statement.
The table shows the amount of water wasted and the cost of this water for one calendar month.

REMOVAL OF CHIEF EVERINGTON FELT KEENLY HERE

Commander of Glendale Post Voices Sentiment of American Legion

Citizens of Glendale, officers and members of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, were shocked to learn of the dismissal this morning of Col. James W. Everington as chief of the Los Angeles police department. Col. Everington lives in Glendale and is a member of the local post of the Legion.

Several weeks ago the Glendale post of the Legion adopted a resolution endorsing the work of Chief Everington in his attempt to clean up the city of Los Angeles and the police department. This resolution recommended that all other posts in the county do the same.

When Commander James Mc-Bryde of Glendale Post No. 127 was told this morning that Ever-ington had been dismissed from the Los Angeles department, he said:
"The resolution passed by the Glendale post at a meeting of that body several weeks ago still stands and the Glendale post is still back of our comrade, James W. Everington. For my part, I am sorry to hear of his dismissal because I think he is capable and honest in his convictions and I am surprised that Los Angeles as a whole would not back him up in his fight. Not because I think that Los Angeles is the worst place in the world, but because I think that it is the best and I want to see it kept that way. Men such as Comrade Everington could do this."

Mr. McBryde gave permission to a representative of the Glendale Daily Press to transmit the above message to Col. Everington in order that he might know the "folks at home" are back of him to a man.

Col. Everington had this to say of his dismissal:
"It is what I have expected all the time. It is apparent that the great mass of people are not yet awakened to the situation. They do not take enough interest in the city government to back up a law-enforcing chief of police with their support. I think I shall take a nice vacation and go fishing."

The notice of Col. Everington's dismissal was handed to him in the form of a brief note from Mayor Cryer while the chief was conferring with Lieut. A. W. Gifford, one of the reinstated officers.
The note read:

"You are hereby removed from the office of chief of police of the city of Los Angeles. Said removal to become effective forthwith."

"Yours very truly,"

"GEO. B. CRYER, Mayor."

Capt. Les Heath was appointed acting chief and informed a representative of the Press who inquired for Col. Everington:

"Mr. Everington is not in and will not be in as he is no longer chief of police of the city of Los Angeles." When asked where Mr.
Everington could be found he said:
"I have no idea where he is, but I present him to you as he will be at his home in Glendale sometime this afternoon. He will not be back in this office."

At the beginning of Col. Ever-ington's fight against gambling and commercial vice in the city of Los Angeles, the Glendale post of the American Legion, of which Col. Everington is a member, voted to stand back of him and to ask other posts to do the same. From the remarks of Legionnaires when they learned that Comrade Everington had been dismissed this support will not be withdrawn now. The trend of opinion among Legionnaires and others who admire Col. Everington as a man, is that "folks at home" will back him stronger than ever.

CITY BUYS A SITE FOR WELL PLANT

Authorizes Purchase of 14
Acres on Valley Road Near Present Wells

PRICE IS TO BE $20,000

Seek Additional Supply of Water Near Southern Group of System

At its meeting last night the council authorized the purchase of 14 acres of land located south of the Southern Pacific tracks and across the tracks from the city's present pumping plant, located on the San Fernando road, the purchase to be made from the firm of Hamlin & Hepburn, and the price to be $20,000.

The purpose of the city in purchasing this ground is to secure additional space on which it can sink other wells, whenever it is found necessary to do so, and also to secure land for a possible site for an other reservoir. It is generally acknowledged by those who are in close touch with this matter that this move is a wise and far-sighted one, as the property in that locality is rapidly increasing in value and would cost a great deal more a year or so from now than it does at this time.

The payments for this land are to be made as follows: $2500 down, $5000 when the papers come out of escrow, $4500 on or before three years, $4000 on or before three years, and the remainder on or before four years, interest to be at a rate of 7 per cent per annum.
This property is being secured at less than $1500 per acre, which is considered extremely reasonable.

K. OF C. TO GIVE HARD TIMES BALL

"Tramps Are Welcome"
Is Slogan of Unique Event

Knights of Columbus have come forward with a decidedly popular social function—a "hard times ball," to be held Saturday evening,
April 22, at Odd Fellows' hall,
2014 West Broadway, at 8 o'clock.

The slogan of the affair is "tramps are welcome," and to encourage typical hard times costuming, a lady's prize and a gentleman's prize is offered, also a prize for the group that best represents some nationality.

Knights of Columbus have talent for funmaking as well as serious things and it is certain to be a hilarious evening. There will be corking jazz orchestral music for the dancing and special features not yet divulged.

No one should miss the grand march, which will be some spectacle. The fine thing about a function of this sort is that everybody can go, new Easter clothes not entering into the proposition. Those who intend to go should spread the news among their friends and do their part in making it a great success.

Following are the committees in charge of the ball Saturday night:
Floor—P. L. Ferry, chairman; J.
E. Smith, H. M. Doll, J. W. Andre, Max Weiss, M. Gannon, V. Salmacia, C. N. Cordary, J. S. Mullen, L.
Bouttier, E. Martinez.

Music and program—M. J. Brennan, chairman; F. H. Clark, C. J.
Griffin, H. E. Essner, M. H. Berry.
Finance—E. L. McMahon, chairman; P. P. Dunn, A. Preter, N. K.
Millen, F. Leslie.

ley, chairman; J. Folz, R. F. Doll,

Everington of Glendale

Los Angeles acted true to form. It discharged Chief of Police Everington. He comes back to Glendale, an honored man.

Veteran of military service, he saw his duty. It was done.

While he was boss—he was boss, in the words of Theodore Roosevelt, when commissioner of police of New York city. The undertow of the city dragged out Roosevelt. It ejected Everington.

Glendale will take upon itself pride in giving to Los Angeles a man of the utmost integrity as its chief police executive. It will glory in the fact that he comes back unsmirched by the grimy hands of graft. He is a man who handled pitch and needs no whitewash now.

It is a sign of the somnolent conscience of the great city that it should continue its civic slumber while a great and good executive passes out of its service, without a protest.

Glendale official life may at times be agitated, it may froth with rivalries of various interests. But it has never yet allowed a good executive to go unhonored—or unsupported.

It has never exchanged the good for the bad.

COUNCIL CALLED ON ROTARIANS HEAR TO EXPLAIN ACTION

Commission Wants to Know About Brand and Gardena Crossing

In a communication from the state railroad commission, the council was ordered to send representatives to a hearing before the commission Tuesday morning, April 25, to explain why the city had put in a crossing at Brand and Gardena without permission from the commission. A communication in regard to this matter was received some time ago by the council to which no answer was returned. The council instructed City Manager Reeves and City Attorney Shaw to represent the city at the hearing mentioned.

In commenting on the matter, Councilman Kimlin remarked it was a strange thing that the Pacific Electric had been able to get such quick action from the communication when a communication which Glendale had sent to the commission several years ago had not been answered to this day. Other councilmen expressed concurrence of opinion with Mr.
Kimlin.

On motion of Councilman Lap-ham, $800 was appropriated from the swimming pool fund for the purchase of bathing suits and paraphernalia, to be rented to patrons when the swimming pool in the city park at Kensington and patterson avenues is completed, which, it is understood, will be in about 90 days.

Mr. Kent called attention to the fact that "Boys' Week" will be observed from April 30th to May 6.
A letter was read from Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson announcing that the postoffice will hold open house from May 1 to May 6 from 9 to 12 a. m., this period being postal improvement week. All citizens are invited to come and look the postoffice over and offer suggestions for improvements.

Announcement was also made that arrangements are being made for Rotarians to make 3-minute talks to boys in the public schools.
Scout Executive Benner was a vocal and invited members to a pow wow to be held April 28 and 29 at Pasadena.

"Dick" White, chairman of high school bond election committee urged members to get out and work for the passage of the high school bonds.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., April 21.—
Just what the committee of Pasadena today had under way a suit to break the will of Mrs. E. K.
Wood, whose husband was a millionaire California lumberman.

A million-dollar estate was involved. Mrs. Wilson charged she was the adopted daughter of the woods and by the agreement of adoption it had been promised she would share equally with the children in the estate. In the will of Mrs. Wood she was bequeathed $1000. The remainder went to Walter T. Wood of Berkeley and
F. J. Wood of Bellingham, Wash.

Service Department Talks on Trade

The forum meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening, drew an appreciative audience —officials congratulated themselves on the fine program provided, and urged members present to advertise the excellence of these open-house affairs.

The two speakers of the evening were Charles P. Bayer, chairman of the newly created Service Department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and Hon. Lon Haddock, who has recently come to California from Salt Lake, Utah, and who announced at the conclusion of his address that he and his partner are about to build homes in Glendale and make this city their permanent residence.

The program opened with the singing of America led by Roy L.
Kent with a harp accompaniment played by Mrs. Enona Hopkins, who later played two harp solos that were much enjoyed.

Other musical numbers were contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cavanah, professional singers who have recently come to Glendale to live. They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Mildred Fry, Mrs. Cavanah singing in solo, "An IMPROVEMENT OF BRAND DISCUSSED

Civics Committee Meets for Conference at the Glen Inn

Members of the civic committee of the chamber of commerce met for dinner at the Glen Inn Thursday evening to consider a number of propositions which had been referred to it. Covers were laid for Dr. Jessie Russell, chairman, W.
S. Rattray, C. L. Peckham, Lloyd
Wilson and Thomas D. Watson.

One of the first matters taken up was the temporary improvement of Brand boulevard by filling in holes and ruts instead of waiting for the tracks to be lowered and the street paved.

Clean-up week was proposed as a substitute for cleanup day. Following the committee meeting these recommendations were placed by Dr. Russell before the city council which agreed to carry them out and the mayor said he would prepare a proclamation for cleanup week.

A third subject of discussion by the committee was the proposed music festival. This will be made the subject of a report to be presented to the chamber at the next noon luncheon of its board of directors.

COUNCIL ADVANCES MINIMUM SERVICE

Electricity Price Increased 25 Cents Per Month to Meet Deficit

The council decided last night to increase the minimum rate for electricity from 83 cents, the present rate, to $1.18 per month, an increase of 25 cents. This increase has been decided upon to take care of the increased cost of operation of the city.

During the past few weeks it has been found necessary to employ a large number of additional people, these being scattered through the various departments and to purchase property and equipment of different kinds. Some method of raising additional funds was necessary. At first "merchants' tax" was considered, but this met with such opposition on the part of the merchants of the city that it was abandoned. Then, this increase in the minimum for electricity was decided upon, it being considered that this is the most effective way of making everyone in the city stand his share of the debt. Up to this time there has been no opposition to this electricity minimum increase.

FLAG DEDICATION BY BOY SCOUTS AT VERDUGO

Public Invited to Ceremony Saturday Afternoon at 2 o'clock

The dedication of a fine new flag pole and the first flag raising at the club house of troop No. 2, Glendale Boy Scouts, will be held in Verdugo Woodlands Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to come and witness the "raising" and to bring a picnic supper and spend the evening.

The American Legion will be represented by a speaker at the flag raising and dedication and Thomas M. Buley of Los Angeles will also speak. He was formerly scout commissioner of Los Angeles and has watched the development of the troop with the greatest interest.

The pole to be dedicated was the gift of A. A. Barton, member of the Scout Council and also a member of the troop committee. The flag was given by another friend interested in the welfare of the troop, J.
J. Berliner, of Long Beach.

Visitors who go by trolley should leave the car at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. Charles Chandler, 2320
Canada boulevard.

CONGREGATIONALS ASK SET-BACK LINE

Council Takes Petition Under Advisement Until Monday Night

A number of minor matters of considerable interest came before the city council at its meeting Thursday night.

A communication was read from the Glendale Congregational church asking for a permit to set up a new $85,000 church at its site at the northeast corner of Central and Wilson avenues, closer to the property line than the 25 feet prescribed by ordinance.

Dr. Eckles, city health officer, asked if he had authority to order
the dogs of Glendale muzzled, explaining that 16 cases of dog bite have been reported since the beginning of the year. He did not insinuate that these cases meant rabies, but said that he desired to take precautions. The matter was referred to City Manager Reeves with instructions to confer with Dr. Eckles and report at the next meeting.

ROUTINE ACTIVITY OF CITY COUNCIL

Action Secured on Various Matters, Told in Brief

At the meeting of the city council last night bids for the following work were opened and referred to the superintendent of plant and production, and city engineer: Water pipe for Brand boulevard from Windsor road to San Fernando road; water pipe on San Fernando road from Vine to Pacific; water pipe on Tenth street between Allen and Thompson; Elk avenue, between Pacific and San Fernando road; Western avenue from San Fernando road to Tenth street.

A bid of $1490.50 for the Elliott-Fischer bookkeeping machine that is to be purchased by the council was received from the Elliott-Fischer company of Los Angeles. Upon the recommendation of City Manager Reeves, this machine was ordered purchased.

Permits as follows were granted for the caring of children in Glendale: Mrs. A. McCann at 222 South Glendale avenue; Mrs. G. W. Reaser at 121 North Adams street; Emma V. Bacon at 1335 South San Fernando road.

The firm of Napier & Sampson, contractors, were granted an extension of 30 days' time on the work it is now doing on Kenilworth, Garfield, California and Elk streets.

The matter of granting the Congregational church organization a permit to place its new edifice closer than 25 feet from the front property line was laid over until Monday evening.

On a majority petition of property owners, city engineer and city attorney were instructed to start necessary proceedings for the opening and laying out of Dorothy drive, tract No. 1419, to Pacific avenue.

On petition from Charles W. Bruce and others, city engineer and city attorney were instructed to start necessary proceedings for the installation of curbing on a portion of Palmer street.

The referred petition to set aside Glendale avenue from Lexington to Verdugo as a first class residential district was taken up. It is claimed 52 per cent of the frontage is in favor of this move. The city clerk was instructed to give data of hearing of protests as early as possible.

The lease covering privilege to construct pipe line under Pacific Electric tracks was accepted.

The application of Harry Tobias for a permit to build a frame building between San Fernando road and the Southern Pacific tracks, in fire district, was denied, the fire chief reporting against the building.

An ordinance setting aside residential district No. 2 was adopted. The parking ordinance, which would regulate the parking of automobiles on the business streets of Glendale was laid over for one week.

The following resolutions were presented and adopted: A resolution ordering in the work on Chestnut street, Central to Glendale; a resolution adopting certain maps on file in the office of the city engineer; resolution of intention to improve Maryland, Kenwood, Jackson and Howard streets, north of Doran street; resolution abandoning proceedings for the improvement of Brand boulevard from Colorado to Windsor; a resolution accepting easement for the construction of culvert across the Pacific Electric right of way at Maple street; a resolution of intention to improve Brand boulevard, Colorado to Windsor with Willits pavement; resolution of intention to open and lay out Belmont street to a point 140 feet north of Maple; a resolution of intention to vacate a portion of Hollywood drive, south of Sierra avenue; a resolution accepting deeds and partial release of mortgages.

Demands against the city as follows were presented and ordered paid: Miss Ruth Gibbs, stenographic work for Traffic Manager Gullick, $17.33; Miss Watson, stenographic work for city engineer and comptroller, $17.25.

City Engineer Hill was instructed to turn back into acreage the property subdivided recently by Kergard & Mulally, this firm to pay the engineering charges of $48.55.

Upon request City Treasurer Sherer was granted a three days' leave of absence to take place next week, the time to be taken at his own expense.

On request of street superintendent and approval of city manager the street department was instructed to purchase one 110-gallon asphalt tank for $450 and one truck body for $150, these being required for the repairing of the streets in the city that are at this time neglected.

fer with the city council relative to the business tax. As the chairman was not present, Councilman Davis, who was a guest, stated that the business tax objected to was "all off."

Mrs. T. Light, of the hotel committee said its hope of having something definite to report had not been realized but that it was making steady progress, that it had been interviewing hotel men and had found several interested in entering into a lease.

For the Glendale Avenue improvement committee, Charles F. Stuart reported the circulation of petitions for the improvement of the street and a large number of signers. The question was asked whether the signatures of 51 or more percent of owners of abutting property would be necessary, and City Manager Reeves said "no," that where an improvement is needed and desired the council sometimes acts without the circulation of any petition.

Charles Stanley thought it would be well to defer the presentation of the petition to the council until more signatures had been obtained. Herman Nelson reported concerning the Glendale Avenue Improvement Association meeting called by Harry Levey for Wednesday night, which he had attended. He said:

"We are trying to get electric service on Glendale avenue and while there has not been any definite meeting with the railroad officials, there has been discussion with parties interested which leads the committee to believe there is a very good chance of getting an electric line as far north as Verdugo road, and that arrangements could be perfected whereby the hauling of freight on Glendale avenue would be taken care of in a manner satisfactory to all. Mr. Levey indicated under certain conditions he would be willing to go in and work for it. The change to electric service will take considerable money and if the company should approach the committee along that line, would be interested enough to help in the matter because it would be a tremendous improvement. It would not compete with the Pacific Electric because it would not be going to the same place."

"The proposition narrows down to whether the improvement will be of sufficient interest for us to help, and if so, to what extent."

"As to the street improvement of Glendale avenue at the present time, in view of the negotiations going on with the railroad and the need for harmony all around, I think the matter can be deferred for a short time at least. We gain nothing by pressing it at the present time because we do not know just what we want and the council will not act until we do know. I therefore move that these petitions for the improvement of Glendale avenue be deferred until we can get some definite proposition from the railroad. Mr. Stewart suggested that the matter be deferred for two weeks and Mr. Nelson accepted the amendment. The motion then passed unanimously."

For the postoffice committee Mr. Stanley reported petitions prepared for circulation which he read and which were addressed to Postmaster Jackson asking for a branch postoffice in the neighborhood of Glendale and Broadway. All present were invited to sign.

The postoffice committee was continued with an urge on the part of President Ingledue that there be "no compromise on any 24th postoffice." President Ingledue then brought up the question of permanent organization with regular dues sufficient to cover the expense of sending out notices, etc. Dr. Harrower endorsed the proposition, suggesting that dues be set at some fixed amount, $1, $2 or $3 and offered to have stencils made of the membership list and to have the postal card addresses addressed at the addressograph machines. This offer was promptly accepted and the doctor was elected treasurer after the members had voted for permanent organization with dues of $3 per year.

Dr. Harrower then presented the desirability of extending the electric line on Broadway to the east end of the street and suggested that the association sponsor a movement to urge it upon the city council. He finally put it in the form of a motion carrying with it the appointment of a committee and was unanimously carried and the president announced that the committee would be named later.

As the White Inn will move to its new location in a few days, the question of a meeting place next Thursday came up and the association accepted an invitation to meet at the Harrower laboratory for a cold lunch unless notices should be sent out to the contrary by the secretary. An announcement was also made that Mr. Pilling of the Credit Men's Association would be present and speak at the next meeting.

Those present were: C. W. Ingledue, president; Herman Nelson, secretary; Dr. Henry R. Harrower, treasurer; Dr. A. L. Stevens, R. M. Brown, William C. Page, A. C. Barlow, F. H. Rees, Dr. J. P. Luccock, W. H. Hyde, James Howarth, J. W. S. Perch, J. W. McIntyre, S. A. Davis, Charles F. Stuart, S. C. Kinch, Charles S. Stanley, W. S. Herring, Mrs. E. G. Herring, J. H. Foltz, J. K. Todd, David K. Todd, F. H. Vesper, Harry Miller, Joseph Klebert, R. L. Hill, William H. Reeves, C. A. Sutter, Frank L. Fox, W. R. Vanderwood, Mrs. M. L. T. Light, and Grace J. Fraley.

HOUSE COMMITTEE LEARNS MINE STRIKE FACTS

A probe of the nation-wide strike of coal miners is being made by the house labor committee, looking to a solution of the differences between the workers and the operators. Seen here, right to left, are Representative Nolan, chairman of the house labor committee; John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; Frank Morrison and Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, and Representative Meyer London of New York. to wear their badge—that of a black cat, with more pride as the annual events come and go. Prominent men will be present at the meeting here and in all probability will address the gathering on some of the important phases of the lumber industry.

George Bentley in speaking of the strike said: "Hoo-Hoo is a play ground for lumbermen, where they may forget their troubles for at least a time, but it also stands for better things as it is suggested by the following code of ethics, which the Hoo-Hoo rigidly observes:

1—To fill with credit the sphere in which we are placed without interfering with the rights of others.

2—To promote human advancement and higher standards of civic, social and economic relations by developing in business the spirit of the Golden Rule, which was accepted as the basic principle of peace and prosperity for the world.

3—To establish the spoken word on the basis of the written bond.

4—To cultivate true friendship and therefore confidence between persons engaged in the lumber industry, modifying the freedom of competition with the good sense of understanding.

5—To conduct ourselves and our business so that we may render service to society.

6—To consider our vocation worthy and to be worthy of our vocation as the nation's home-builders.

7—To assist liberally and sympathetically all that seeks to elevate humanity, by charity of action and thought and by justice to all men through the "Square Deal."

8—To keep in view the world bonds of human interest and trade, seeking to promote justice and fair dealing to all nations and races and all world understanding consistent with the maintenance of Anglo-Saxon ideals and historic Americanism.

9—To recognize the abiding power of cooperation and organization and so to act as individuals that the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo shall ever be regarded with honor as a source of community benefit and good-will.

LON HADDOCK MAKES REPLY

"When California Poppies Bloom and Snow is on the Mountains," by a Los Angeles composer, Mr. Cavannah sang in solo. "Smilin' Through" (Penn) and "Duna" (McGill) and the two sang in duet "O Lovely Night" (Ronald), and "Need So Much" (Metrol). They delighted their audience and received enthusiastic applause.

At the close of the program Secretary Rhoades urged upon the attention of the audience the critical conditions with regard to the high school and urged a united campaign to carry the bond issue.

Dr. Jessie Russell, chairman of the Chamber's civic committee, reported that the city council had approved the committee's recommendation for a "cleanup week" and that the council had named the period from April 24 to 29. It would apply, she said, to business houses as well as residences, and the schedule of days on which the wagons would call would be announced later.

The doctor also reported a committee inspection of the Brand boulevard paving and the location of a number of holes and other imperfections which had been reported to the council; that body having promised to make repairs immediately. The applause which followed the report indicated appreciation of the work of the committee.

The first speaker, Mr. Bayer, brought greetings from the Los Angeles Chamber and especially the greeting of Frank Wiggin, who has been secretary of that chamber for 30 years, and in the words of Mr. Bayer, has done more than any other 25 or 50 men for Southern California during that period.

He explained that his chamber had come to realize that the growth of the suburbs tributary to Los Angeles and the growth of the counties and states tributary to the port of Los Angeles means the growth of that city, and vice versa. In other words that they are mutually dependent upon each other. The chamber has therefore adopted the policy of promoting by all means in its power the welfare of all this surrounding territory and has created the department of service of which Mr. Bayer is the head, for this special purpose. He said if anyone had predicted 25 years ago the growth that has actually taken place in Southern California, they would have been considered a fit subject for incarceration in Patton. Judging the future by the past, we cannot conceive what may be in store for this favored section in the 25 years to come. He spoke of foreign trade and the interest that Californians should feel in the opportunities along this line that are coming to the state. He complimented the Glendale Chamber on its secretary, "Jim" Rhoades, and mentioned the various departments maintained by the Los Angeles Chamber which has answered an average of 2000 inquiries a month from home-seekers looking to residence in Southern California. The flow of immigration has only just started, he said. He especially referred to the new department of industrial music which is promoting choruses, orchestras, etc.

In responding to the flattering introduction given him by President Hollister, Mr. Haddock said he was glad his wife was present to hear what a really great man he is. He said he liked good roads and straight roads and Jim Rhoades represented both good roads and straight roads, that it is a great asset to any chamber to have such a man ready to dedicate himself and his service to it.

It was the speech of a booster delighted with his new home and ready to jump in and push a good thing along. Naturally it was most pleasing to the Glendaleans in the audience who frequently interrupted with applause.

He said it was a great thing to be the fastest growing city in the United States which meant the fastest growing city in the world, and it had not come about by chance or simply because of a pleasing environment, but rather because of the character of its citizenship and the fact that they had worked together for the up-building of civic interests. "It will grow however, no faster than its weakest citizen and for that reason if growth is to be maintained and augmented it behooves the association to bring up the laggards. Nothing to compare with the growth of Glendale has been seen before in all the history of the world, he declared.

To offset the queries of pessimists, "Will it keep up?" he mentioned the movement toward Southern California of all the rest of the country saying "there are millions on the way. Have you ever stopped to think that this country has an assessed valuation greater than any one of 26 states in the union."

"The population of Los Angeles county is greater today than any one of 15 states of the union. Los Angeles is the eighth industrial city in the United States. The fact that manufacturing plants are only located after careful investigation has demonstrated that it is the best place to locate such an enterprise. When you hear the query, 'Can this development keep up?' ask yourselves if all this wealth and all these enterprises are going to be swept away. There is no line of industry you can name that if destroyed tomorrow would permanently retard the development of this country."

As stated, Mr. Haddock, who is one of the firm of Haddock & Nibley, which owns and is marketing the Glendale Heights tract, announced that he and Mr. Nibley are about to build homes here, and the announcement was received with applause, President Hollister stating at the conclusion of the address that both gentlemen would be put to work on chamber committees.

A very moving plea for contributions to the Near-East Relief was made at the conclusion of the program by Miss Truran who told of terrible conditions in Armenia from her own first hand knowledge and observations. No one could hear her recital of the famine and distress of the children of that country to whom the relief workers are trying to minister, without feeling a desire to help. She begged for contributions even small to be left with Mr. Osgood at the First National Bank.

"Do you know anything about palmistry, Herbert?" she asked. "Oh, not much," he answered, "although I had an experience last night which might be considered a remarkable example of palmistry. I happened to glance at the hand of a friend, and I immediately predicted he would presently become the possessor of a considerable amount of money. Before he left the room he had a nice little sum handed to him."

"And you foretold that from his hand?"

"Yes, it had four aces in it."

Small ambitions are the enemies of great achievements.

CLEANUP WEEK STARTS MONDAY

the summer season and we believe that they will respond and will clean up their properties if the city will haul the rubbish away after it has been collected. The city may have to employ a number of additional trucks, but we feel that the money expended in this manner will be well spent. If the city council will take care of carrying the rubbish away the civic committee will see that it is collected."

The council decided to instruct the mayor to issue a proclamation declaring next week official cleanup week. The rubbish in the various parts of the city will be collected at different times. The collecting wagons will take their regular routes, the only difference in collection, being that there will be more vehicles employed to take care of the increased amount of rubbish.

With regard to the repairing of the chuck-holes in the streets of the city, Dr. Russell said:

"For some time I have been impressed that the city should take unusual steps toward smoothing out the streets of the city and since our trip around the valley the other day I am more impressed by this. One of the first suggestions that should be repaired is Brand boulevard. Although this is the main thoroughfare of the city it is in worse shape than any of our other streets. Although steps are under way for the improvement of this stretch of roadway it seems to us that something can be done to relieve the situation temporarily. We suggest that this and the other roadways of the street being improved in a manner similar to North Central avenue, which was repaired by the county. It does not take long to improve the streets in this manner, and the work after it is done is very satisfactory. Poor streets constitute any city but a good advertisement for the city."

"Could you not have the chuck-holes filled? I understand that one party had the radiator of his machine broken three times by driving into chuck holes on Brand boulevard. I did not come here to dictate to the board or anything like that—I am merely suggesting, and I want to state the civic committee and the entire chamber of commerce is ready to stand back of you in anything you may try to do in this and any other matter that has for the advancement and improvement of Glendale. We are willing and anxious to co-operate."

"We have just authorized the purchase of road repairing machinery," said Councilman Davis, "and it will doubtless be used in this work."

"With this new machinery," asked Dr. Russell, "could you not do your earliest experimenting on Brand boulevard?"

"We all realize that Brand should be improved," said Councilman Stevenson, "while driving up this road at 15 miles an hour it is all a fellow can do to stay in his seat."

City Manager Reeves said: "I just want to say that it was with the intention of repairing Brand and other streets that are not being cared for at this time and that need attention that this additional road working equipment has been purchased. This new equipment will be secured at the earliest possible moment and we will pounce on Brand boulevard just as soon as it arrives."

CRANBERRY DISEASES

Cranberry diseases in Pacific county have been studied by Dr. F. D. Head, head of the plant pathology department of the State College of Washington. He is spending a fortnight there with M. D. Armstrong, extension horticulturist, planning a spraying program for the season as part of the clean-up program which will be pushed vigorously in cooperation with the state department of agriculture in abandoned bogs, and seeing that growers employ the best known spraying practices. In June a plant pathologist will be sent to devote his entire time throughout the season to investigations of diseases and demonstrations of cranberry production work. This is made possible through the cooperation of the Pacific county commissioners, who have appropriated funds to be used in part for this purpose, with the expert station and the extension service of the state college.

"Cranberry growing is one of the infant industries of Washington susceptible of large development," says Director E. C. Johnson of the experiment station, "as there are considerable areas in several of the coast counties adapted to the culture of this valuable fruit. I consider this a very important piece of work."

"Robert," said the teacher to one of the juvenile class, in your composition on George Washington you say he cut down a cherry tree with a saw. Don't you know he chopped it down with a hatchet?"

"Yes'm," replied Robert, "but I didn't know how to spell hatchet."

When you wake up at daylight and can't go to sleep again it is a sign it's a holiday.

HUNTINGTON WILL GIVE GALLERY TO PUBLIC

Famous "Blue Boy" Picture in Million Dollar Collection

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—Henry E. Huntington recently perfected here his plans for giving to the public his wonderful museum, art gallery and library, at San Marino, near Pasadena.

The collection was recently enriched by Huntington's purchase of Gainsborough's masterpiece, "Blue Boy," for $800,000.

Huntington will follow the legal method adopted by Leland Stanford, in giving his fortune to Stanford University.

First will be the creation of a self-perpetuating trust, to be known as the Henry E. Huntington library and art gallery.

As trustees he has appointed W. E. Dunn, chairman; George S. Patton, vice-chairman; and J. E. Brown, secretary. Huntington himself will act as treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Huntington have endowed the gift perpetually, so that it will always have funds with which to operate. Other deeds will transfer the library grounds, and the orange groves surrounding the property. Another deed will convey the Huntington residence after the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Huntington.

Gathering his wonderful library has been Huntington's chief work for years. Many priceless books and manuscripts are now in the collection. One of the immediate tasks facing those in charge of the library is cataloging and indexing the books. Because of the recent rapid increase in the number of books, indexing will practically have to be reorganized.

WHEN EVERY PASSENGER SHALL FIND HIS PROPER NICHE —

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Now for the Fireside Thunder and Lightning Sets

Sweet days are ahead. The ambition, felt by every human being at one time or another, to hurl a bolt of lightning is within early realization.

And, as far as thunder is concerned, you soon may be able to roll your own.

Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, electrical wizard, claims to have discovered a method of producing thunder and lightning which, as the druggist would say, are "just as good" as the original articles.

By pressing the third button from the left and turning lever No. 3 in his laboratory, the scientist recently released a lightning bolt that ripped a miniature tree from tip to base and shattered specified oak planks to smithereens.

Great! Only thing that remains to be done now is to put the apparatus up in parlor game sets so the young and old may while away the dull evenings.

No home will be complete without a Lightning Casting Outfit. Children will cry for it.

Little Willie will amuse himself casting zig-zag bolts at the cat. Sister Susie will kill the duller hours trying to score a direct hit on her doll with a Jovian bolt at 30 paces. Pa and Ma will fight it out with personally conducted electrical storms in the kitchen.

A good time will be had by all except the neighbors.

Landlords will call at their own peril. A shot of lightning between the eyes is enough to take any man's mind off the mere matter of back rent.

It really is very simple, according to Dr. Steinmetz. Ever since the scientist saw his first thunderstorm he has wanted to make one just like it. With possible improvements on the lightning.

In that ambition he has had nothing on members of the human race. Practically every man has longed to produce his own lightning bolts. It has been simply a case of never getting down to it. Every time a thunderstorm came along it would remind a fellow of his ambition, but  well, so many other things would come up between storms to distract him!

But once you make up your mind to perfect indoor lightning and get steadfastly to work success is certain. It seems. No success is possible on the other hand, if, in the midst of perfecting a few cushion shots with lightning, you succumb to an invitation to drop work and run down to the burlesque house.

To be a successful lightning maker you've got to concentrate. Dr. Steinmetz has concentrated, and what's the result? He is now an even money choice in the betting whenever he is matched with a real honest-to-goodness thunder storm.

Really, awfully simple! When the secret is marketed, and every well-conducted home has its own set, a caller, on a stifling summer evening, may remark: "Could you serve a cooling thunder storm? I'm so warm!"

"Certainly," will be the reply. "Will you have two lumps of lightning with your thunderstorms or three?"

"Three, if you don't mind. Are you sure it isn't too much trouble?"

"No trouble at all, m'dear. I just love to get up dainty little electrical disturbances for my friends."

Listening in on Eve

MUCH ADOO ABOUT FISH

"Jim," called the brown-eyed wife to the easy going head of the house as he dropped his brief-case on the living-room table. "I hope you didn't forget the fish."

"Well, Rena, you see how late it is now," replied the easy going head of the house. "I missed the 5:15 and the next two were locals and I hated the thought of stopping at every little cowpat along the line and so I waited for the 5:22 express. I met Tom Harmon at the station and Mrs. Harmon—"

"But, Jim," expostulated the brown-eyed wife, "please don't talk to me about Tom Harmon when I'm waiting now to have that fish cooked. I suppose you—"

"My dear," returned the easy going head equally as he teetered backward and forward on his heels and toes with his hands thrust deep into his back trousers pocket. "If you worked hard all day you'd find it quite a relief to stop in a fish shop at night and fetch fish in clear from the city when the markets here—"

"The markets here keep fish that is old!" she finished. "Jim Randolph, I think it's dreadful the way you act about that fish every Friday night. You know that I like good fish."

"But, my darling wife," said the easy going head of the house with his eyes twinkling. "You seem to forget that you are in the city every Friday for your symphony concert, which, to my knowledge, you haven't missed since Russell was old enough to be left at home here. If you were really anxious now about fish—"

"Oh, dear!" complained the brown-eyed wife, bitterly, "as if I could carry fish from the city, when I have on white undressed kid gloves and a crepe meteor frock. And besides, Mrs. Alcock and I always come across from Orchestra Hall together, and I could scarcely ask her to stop with me for fish."

"No." Yet I notice almost every week that old Alcock is there himself getting fish, and lugging home the slippery stuff that is always threatening to slip out of the paper into some fair creature's lap. Think how embarrassing it would be to retrieve a fish from some nice, suburban lady's lap, and say: 'Pardon me, ma'am, that's my fish, ma'am, if you don't mind.'"

A young man soon opened the side door of the living room with a rush, craned his neck around the corner, and then, poking his head out again, said darkly: "No, Brownie, you'll have to stay out a while—the lady headman is in sight and it'd be worth your ears to step on this hallowed old rug with your wet feet." There was a short scuffle on the side porch, a tail-wagging sound, and a huge brown dog rolled on his back into the room.

"Russell," called the brown-eyed wife, "will you take out that wet dog? How many times do I have to tell you never under any consideration to bring him into the house after Marie has been here to clean? There's absolutely no use in cleaning up this house anyhow. I might just as well have spent the morning clipping pictures for my scrap-book as telling Marie what to do."

—By Herbert Johnson.

"That's the line of patter, ma, that always brings 'em to their knees," applauded the young man son, pushing the dog out into the dark and straightening up as the visiting cousin entered the room from the music room. "Hello, little brighteyes," he said to her. "The outja tells me that you must be going somewhere tonight with that waved hair."

"Yes. You don't mind, Rena," said the visiting cousin, "if I just take a sup of tea and go on, do you? I'd better not stop for dinner—"

"You could have just as well had it as not, if Jim hadn't failed to bring the fish."

"Dad," stormed the young man son, "you don't mean to tell me that I've got to keep all the way down to the butcher shop now? Why, if I'd known I could have stopped on my way up."

"There'll be little use in going now," complained the brown-eyed wife with a sigh. "Randall's store will be closed by the time you can get down. Of course, we could eat bacon and eggs, I suppose. I didn't stop, Jim," she said, turning fiercely again to her husband.

"Who said I didn't get the fish?" inquired the easy-going head of the house, opening his eyes widely. "All I said was that it was some trip after working all day. The fish is on the hall table. I never said that I didn't get it."

"Well, Jim," gasped the brown-eyed wife, "you certainly led me to think—Russell, get that fish! And hurry!"

A deaf man was being married and the clergyman asked the usual question: "Do you take this woman for your lawful wife?"

"Eh?" said the deaf man. "Do you take this woman for your lawful wife?" This time a bit louder. The groom seemed to get angry.

"Oh, I don't know," he said. "She ain't so awful. I've seen wuss than her that didn't have as much money."

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and makes a deliciously effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—ADVT.

Theory of the Head-sets or Phones

The telephone receivers, commonly called phones or head-sets, perform a very important part in the reception of radio telephony or telephony, just as every other instrument performs its duty. Without them we would be up a tree, so to speak.

The receivers used are built practically on the same principle as those used on the ordinary telephone except that they are always built of the watch-case pattern. Due to the fact that they must respond to very feeble currents, they are made with extra-light diaphragms and are wound with many turns of fine wire, much finer wire than is used in the ordinary telephone receiver. The turns of wire are wrapped about an iron core, and when current passes through the wire the core is magnetized. The core and wire then becomes known as an electromagnet. As the strength of the field depends upon the number of turns in the coils, it is usually figured beforehand the number of turns that shall be placed on the coil. (The field refers to the number of magnetic lines created around the electro-magnets when current is passed through the wire with which it is wrapped.) The turns about the iron core are called "ampere-turns."

Wireless phones are rated in the terms of their total resistance (ohms is the technical term which stands for resistance), although it is really the number of ampere-turns of wire on the core which determines the degree of sensitivity. As it requires so many turns about the core to obtain the desired amount of sensitivity necessary in radio work, very fine wire must be used in order to get the number of turns required in the limited amount of space allowed in the average case. No. 40 Brown & Sharpe gauge, which is finer than human hair, is the size most commonly used, and naturally has a very high resistance. The number of turns that may be used is limited because of the distance of the outer layers from the core, since their effectiveness in creating a magnetic field decreases with the distance from the core and, after a certain distance is reached, more layers would only add resistance and increase the strength of the field practically none at all.

The average set in use requires receivers rated from 2000 ohms up; 2000 and 3000 ohm receivers are used more than any other size. As explained in yesterday's Press, the detector rectifies the incoming signals and reduces the frequency of the transmitting station to a frequency audible to the human ear. The detector works in cooperation with the head-set and the incoming signals, after having been rectified, pass through the phones and cause the diaphragms to vibrate according to the number of times the detector allows the current to pass in one direction, thereby inducing the sound into the ear, which in turn registers it in some secluded or unoccupied space in the mind.

Technical Terms Defined

Ampere-turns—The number of turns times the current rating in amperes. I. e. if 20 amperes circulates around a coil of five turns the coil would have 100 ampere-turns.

Ohm—If one volt pressure can produce a current flow of one ampere through a circuit, the resistance of the circuit is one ohm. (Number of volts divided by the number of amperes in a circuit equals the number of ohms resistance.)

Brown & Sharp Gauge—Also known as the American wire gauge, is the standard in the United States for the measurement of copper wire diameters. The two kinds of gauges in common use: a circular gauge with different size slots and each slot numbered, the slot into which it fits giving the number of the wire; and the other type is a micrometer. All gauges are made of hardened steel plate.

A Word to the Public—I wish to say a few words, not only in our defense but in defense of our present broadcasting stations in general. Also to fully explain the various noises heard by our audience in front of the Glendale Daily Press.

Some few folks, I know, must be somewhat disgusted with the various interruptions and interferences of all sorts, but let us remember that these stations, taken as an average, have only been in operation for about a week and radio telephone sets cannot be adjusted in a few hours to the smooth running and practically noiseless machines they are when they are in proper adjustment.

Just try and remember that when you hear some noise through our receiving set, that it is not always caused by us or our receiving set. We will be working on our set every day for the coming week to make it as nearly perfect as possible and I can assure you that the broadcasting stations in Los Angeles are doing likewise. Perhaps if you are a very careful observer you have noticed some of the improvements. If you attended the concert in front of our place last evening and had also attended the night before, I am sure that you must have noticed the fact that the frying sound wasn't half so bothersome.

Also, you must bear in mind that this sudden fever, or rather, demand for wireless telephony has swept the country with a rush and that such an upspringing of stations causes the government to make new laws and set aside hours for these broadcasting stations to transmit. New laws have been made, but all of the amateurs who are or have been operating spark transmitting stations are not aware of the new laws. They will be notified as soon as possible and until then we have to struggle along the best way we can.

Some of the various noises you have heard are caused by the adjustment of the brushes on the motor-generators at the transmitting stations, surplus current applied to the bulbs, loose connections, poor ground connections and various other incidentals, too numerous to mention. However, I am sure that we can all put up with these minor troubles until they are corrected, and they will all be taken care of in the near future.

Questions and Their Answers
All questions and answers which are mailed in to the Radio Editor will be answered two days from the date of your letter. In other words, if you mail in a question on Friday it would be answered on Monday's paper. If you mail in a question on Wednesday it would be answered on Friday. The idea is to allow for the mails and also for the fact that our paper goes to press at noon each day. The elapse of three days between Friday and Monday is, of course, due to the fact that we do not publish a Sunday paper.

Also, I might state that all questions will receive an answer. If it requires a very long explanation, or rather, if it should require more space than we are able to spare, you will receive your answer by mail or telephone.

Hints
If your set fails to operate and you are using a pair of 75-ohm receivers, do not tear the set apart to look for trouble. Get a pair of receivers of 2000 ohms or better and I am sure you will note an improvement. Radio signals will not respond to receivers of 75 ohms resistance as satisfactorily as they will on receivers of higher resistance.

When erecting your aerial, solder the joints, particularly where the lead-in joins the antennae. This will do away with future aerial troubles to a great extent as it prevents corrosion from setting in and spoiling the joints.

It is also well to solder the connection to the ground, whether it be inside or the house or outside. Soldering only takes a short while and it improves the operation of the set wonderfully.

There were only two parties looking for a concealed phonograph at the Press radio station last night. Night before there were 18 people. Why the decrease? One man warned us that it we were kidding him it would be our downfall. I know it's hard to believe but we aren't afraid of falling.

EVEN IN YOUR WILDEST DREAMS, did you ever imagine for a moment that the time would come when you could sit down to wash your dishes? But today at the BROADWAY HARDWARE CO., of 205 W. Broadway, I saw the dandiest new stool for the kitchen! It is the SIVON Pivot Stool—a good-looking and handy stool, to be attached on a swinging pivot under your sink, that, when not in use swings under, out of the way, but when it's time to "do dishes," or peel the vegetables, it's no longer necessary to stand over the sink! Drop in at the Broadway Hardware Co. (in Ralph's Building, you know) and ask to see their new white enamel Pivot Stool!

A distinctive dash and daring, due in part to its interesting cape-like body and, equally as much the widely-striped tweed of which it is made, is a long motor coat. A band of velours de laine in soft green matches the stripe, while the sleeves show a contrasting poppy color velour.

IT'S ALWAYS A PLEASURE to shop at GLENN B. PORTER'S FURNITURE STORE, 124 W. Broadway—for you know they maintain a strictly one price policy—offering no special sale inducements to one, and doubling prices on another, to "break even"! I think they are wonderful in a small home, for by day there's a good-looking leather davenport in the living room, but at night, it's the most comfortable bed you've ever slept in! And, oh! yes, you'll want to know where to buy your refrigerator—so I made note of the fact that Porter's have an excellent stock of refrigerators of all kinds—at very moderate prices! And when you're ready to lay fresh linoleum in the kitchen, let Mr. Porter estimate the job, for they've just received a new shipment of linoleum in most attractive designs!

CHOCOLATE CREAM CANDY
Two cups sugar, two-thirds cup of milk, one tablespoon butter, two squares chocolate and one teaspoon vanilla. Put butter into granite sauce pan; when melted, add sugar and milk. Heat to boiling point, then add chocolate and stir constantly until chocolate is melted. Boil thirteen minutes, remove from fire, add vanilla and beat until creamy and mixture begins to sugar slightly around edge of sauce pan. Pour at once into a buttered pan, cool slightly and mark in squares. Omit vanilla if desired and add, while cooking, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon.

ISN'T IT PROVOKING to undertake to serve dinner, and find the cream soured and the butter melted from the heat? And there's only one solution I know of for your difficulty—and that's to hurry down to the ENTERPRISE FURNITURE CO., at 216 E. RECIPES

PRESENTED DAILY BY KATE BREW VAUGHN

SALPICON OF LEMONS IN LEMON SHELLS

Six good sized lemons. Cut from the stem and slice of the outside rind so that lemon will stand upright, while from the blossom end take a piece large enough to expose the pulp. Scoop out all the pulp, remove all the membranes, so that the lemon shell will be left clean. Fill the shells with a filling made of one box boned sardines, a half-dozen anchovies and a couple of sweet green peppers. Chop all very fine and mix with fragments of lemon pulp and moisten with lemon juice. Fill into shells, place a pimiento on top and a scraping of horseradish and serve on small plates with watercress.

MOSCOW TEA CAKES

Beat four eggs just enough to mix with one cup heavy sour cream and one cup granulated sugar. Add one-fourth teaspoon baking soda, dissolved in one teaspoon water and stir until its frothy; then add flour enough to make a soft dough. Roll thin, spread with butter, fold over and roll again as for pastry and repeat until a cup of butter or substitute has been used. This should take about four rollings. Lastly, roll very thin and spread over with one cup of fine chopped blanched almonds, mixed with a little sugar and cinnamon. Cut into rounds, place on greased baking sheet and bake in a hot oven until brown.

BLACK AND WHITE ICING

Ice the cake with a white icing flavored with vanilla. Melt one-half ounce unsweetened chocolate over hot water, add one-fourth teaspoon butter and stir together. Then (working quickly before the white icing and chocolate are cold) dip a camel's hair brush in the chocolate and draw parallel lines on the iced cake. With the back of a silver knife cut through these lines, first in one direction and then in another. If the bowl in which the white icing is made and the bowl in which the chocolate is melted are kept over bowls of hot water while the cake is being decorated the result is more satisfactory.

LEGION AUXILIARY TO HOLD FOOD SALE

All Day Market to Be Held at McBain's Grocery

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion have arranged for an all-day food sale at the McBain grocery on East Broadway near Glendale avenue, as a benefit for disabled veterans ordered from Thornycroft who wish to try the climate of Tujunga hills instead of going to Sawtelle. Many of them have families here from whom they do not want to be separated and it is felt with a little help they can at least try the experiment. Every citizen disposed to contribute to this food sale—bread, pie, cake, doughnuts, salads, baked beans, canned fruit, jelly, etc., is requested to communicate with the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Herring of the Glendale ice cream factory at 140 North Glendale, or to telephone her, Glendale 2367.

The sale will open Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and continue as long as the stocks hold out. The Glendale ice cream factory will contribute Eskimo Pies, which it is now manufacturing.

Glendale has shown its sympathy many times in the past for these boys who sacrificed so much for their country and their fellow citizens and it is believed citizens will not fail to do their bit this time, especially the mothers who know how to make goodies.

WOMEN'S EXHIBITS

"Women's Household Exhibits at County and Community Fair" is the title of a new extension service bulletin just issued by Dean Florence Harrison of the home economics college at the State College of Washington.

In this new publication, No. 80 of the extension series, are given very clear directions as to arrangements of exhibits, entries, entry tags, methods of judging and scoring, and particulars as to food and clothing exhibits, the art and handicrafts exhibits, suggested lists for the culinary department, needlework, table linen, art and handicrafts.

All this information has been condensed into less than two dozen pages, simplified and tabulated so as to make it as easily understood as a child's play for the assistance of fair managers, exhibitors and judges. It is sent free on request within the state.

The attractive cover design shows a photograph of the Grays Harbor county fair grounds, furnished by W. L. Cox of Elma.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

HE'S NEW YORK'S OWN "BABY TARZAN"

Minus clothing, winter and summer, 18-months-old Jimmy Syracuse "apes" around in his father's private park in Upper Manhattan, New York. Perfect physically is this "Baby Tarzan." Outdoor life is not going to hurt the youngster, asserts his father, who doesn't agree with Darwin, but thinks Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of the "Tarzan" stories, had some feasible physical culture philosophy. The child is being reared without clothes and plays about unhampered by garments.

BUSINESS WOMEN PACIFIC P. T. A. CLUB PROGRAM POSTPONED

Concert Is Set for May 14 at the Chamber of Commerce

The final program of the series given by the Business and Professional Women's club for the benefit of their rest room, which was to have been given Friday evening, April 28, will have to again be postponed because of the art exhibit, which is to be held in the chamber of commerce that week. The concert will be given Thursday evening, May 4.

The final program we believe to be the best of the series and will be presented by the Girard-La Bonte quartet, which has made itself so popular with the music lovers of Glendale. For those who have not heard this quartet, there is a huge treat in store. A lyrical idyl entitled "The Trend of Time," with the music written by Mr. Girard, has never been given before a Glendale audience. Thursday, May 4, 7:45 p. m., in the chamber of commerce.

A called meeting of the organization committee of the vocational alliance formed recently by the Women's Faculty club and the Business and Professional Women's clubs for Los Angeles county was held yesterday at 4 p. m. in the Brack Shops. Mrs. George U. Moyle, Mrs. M. P. Mohrly and Mrs. Margaret I. Biggs were in attendance. Plans were presented by Miss Hansen, who has been secured to conduct the bureau, for an extensive campaign, to take place during the month of May.

The Business Women's association of Los Angeles entertained 200 county federation business and professional women at its club rooms, 176 Bonnie Brae, Wednesday evening, for the regular monthly dinner and meeting. Mrs. Lloyd Gaplin, the county president, introduced Mrs. Conley, the association president, and she in turn presented Dr. Mary Van Water, juvenile court judge, who had charge of the program. This club is an organization of business women who are playing the part of big sisters to young and inexperienced business girls earning minimum apprentice wages and trying to cope with the problems of life in a large city.

The program consisted on short addresses by Judge Wilde, County Probation Officer Holland, Dr. John Haynes and Miss Mary Workman. The Glendale Business Women's club was represented by Dr. Caroline Paine Jackson, Mrs. E. P. Beck, Dr. Eble, Mrs. Grace Yarbrough, Miss Cora Wilson and Mrs. Margaret I. Biggs. A splendid spirit of cooperation was manifested and our women were encouraged and inspired to greater effort in their work.

EX-CHIEF LAMPERT LEADS PARTY-TO LANCASTER

Purchase Nearly Full Section Likely to Develop Oil Possibilities

Invading Antelope Valley yesterday, accompanied by four of his friends, John P. Lampert, ex-chief of police of Glendale who is now a prominent realtor here, reports today that the party bought several tracts of land amounting to a little more than a full section. Mr. Lampert states that he managed to secure a promising tract on which pears and alfalfa can be grown but which is of greater interest to him, is likely to prove oil bearing property.

The party included O. W. Tarr, the former owner of the Chevrolet agency in Glendale, E. D. Cotton and Mr. Grogan of Los Angeles. All now own property in the eastern end of the valley not far from where several concerns are drilling for oil.

The drive to Lancaster, where the first stop was made, took approximately three hours. Mr. Lampert states that the center for pears, alfalfa, grapes and cattle as practically an inexhaustible supply of water has been discovered in the artesian wells. The development of this country, he said, has all been done since 1910, prior to which it was practically a desert.

Four rigs are up east of the state highway where practically all of the oil concerns are operating. Mr. Lampert said that in Lancaster it was reported that the Southern Pacific is about to withdraw from sale the lands which it owns in the valley and which is likely to become oil bearing. Development just north of Mr. Lampert's new tract by two companies will prove up his land for him, he believes.

"What can you tell me about Esau?" asked the pedagogue of his most promising pupil in the beginning class. "Esau," replied the young hopeful, "Esau was the fellow what wrote fables and sold the copyright for a bottle of potash."

Why is it that an ordinarily level-headed man can't resist making silly speeches when a girl in the legitimate discharge of her duties comes in his way?

THURSDAY CLUB MEETS AT LIBRARY

Plans Visit to Mission to Consider Women's Club Fund

The members of the Thursday Afternoon club held a business session Thursday afternoon at the branch library building, corner of South Brand and Los Feliz road. The president, Mrs. E. V. Bacon, presided.

The club is planning to have 25 members go to the Mission Play between now and the first week in May to represent the club. They considered the question of contributing to the fund to build the women's clubhouse at Washington D. C.

The election of president, first vice-president, second vice-president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary and treasurer will take place in May.

Plans were made for a card party to be given at the branch library building on the evening of Thursday, April 27. Dr. Jessie Russell and Mrs. J. L. Wilbur are in charge of the evening. They will select a committee, their names to be announced later.

COLUMBUS P. T. A. ADOPTS ARMENIAN

Responds to Appeal by Near East Relief Worker

At the regular meeting of the Columbus avenue P. T. A. Thursday afternoon the members adopted an Armenian child to take care of for the coming year. This action came as a result of the splendid talk given by Mrs. Mabel Hahn of the Near East Relief.

The principal speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Macrura of Los Angeles, who gave a splendid talk on "Modern Education," telling what it is and what it means to the future citizenship of the world. A nominating committee was elected, consisting of the following: Mrs. H. C. Vandewater, Mrs. E. L. Young, Mrs. Mersler, Mrs. J. F. Torrey and Miss Lorraine Mitchell.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO BE GUESTS

Members of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club have been invited to be the guests of Mrs. Peggy Warner at her apartment No. 2, 106 East Wilshire avenue, Tuesday evening, April 25, at a business and social session at which refreshments will be served.

Now that the influenza epidemic is over it is expected that members will rally to the club standard and it is hoped that every member will be present and participate in the discussion of plans for the summer and important matters of interest to all.

Another postponement of the Girard-Le Bonté concert, to be given as a club benefit, has been necessary because the date set will conflict with the art exhibit to be held at the chamber of commerce. The concert will therefore be held the evening of May 4 in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce. This date should be kept in mind and every member is asked to advertise the date among their friends and promote the sale of tickets, which can be secured at the meeting next Tuesday night.

SPORTS CLOTHES SOCIAL EVENING

The "Sports Clothes" dance to be given tonight by the Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will be one of the big social events of the season. This dance is being given for the benefit of the new clubhouse and a very large crowd is expected. There will be cards for those who do not care to dance, and many beautiful prizes will be awarded. Music for dancing will be furnished by the "Gaiety Four."

APPEAL FOR HIGH SCHOOL BONDS

Mrs. Moyse Addresses Broadway P. T. A. on Needs of the Hour

At the regular meeting of the Broadway P. T. A. held Thursday afternoon at the school, the kindergarten pupils played an important part. The first 20 minutes of the afternoon was given over to them and a splendid program was put on at that time. There were solos, dances, and a very clever flag salute.

Mrs. Mabel Hahn of the Near East Relief gave an interesting talk and Mrs. George U. Moyse from the high school made an urgent appeal to the ladies to vote for high school bonds on May 2.

The next number on the program was a piano solo by Evelyn Bowles. This was followed by the month's count to see which room had the most mothers present and the kindergarten received the $1 prize.

Delegates to send to the federation meeting next week were Mrs. Bowles, Mrs. Kane, Mrs. Martinez, Mrs. Wilber, Mrs. Jepson, Mrs. Griffin, Mrs. Van Arsdol and Mrs. Baron. The nominating committee to elect officers for the coming year were Mrs. Kane, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Martinez, Mrs. Wilber and Mrs. Griffin.

A social hour followed in which cake and iced tea were served. A tiny baby drew a number out of a box to draw the quilt. The number drawn was 45 and if the party holding that number will call Mrs. Martinez, Glendale 1942-W she may have the quilt.

PIONEER, M. C. A. SECRETARY IS HONORED HERE

R. Weidensall, 86, First Secretary, Is at Sanitarium

A tribute to one of the big men of the world from the viewpoint of disinterested service and to one of the best known and best beloved men in the world, was paid last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George G. McDill, 1451 East Wilson avenue, to "Uncle Robert Weidensall," first international Y. M. C. A. secretary and first traveling Y. M. C. A. secretary in the world, on the occasion of his 86th birthday anniversary. Taking advantage of his stay for rest and recuperation at the Glendale sanitarium, he was invited to be guest of honor at a dinner Thursday night, at which covers were laid for a party of old friends who had been associated with him in Y. M. C. A. work in the past or the present.

The guest list included Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Edmonds of this city, who are old friends of the honoree. Dr. Edmonds having been engaged in Y. M. C. A. work for 16 years; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Fry of this city were also guests and George Bancroft, father of Mrs. Fry. Mr. Fry has been in Y. M. C. A. work for a number of years. H. E. Fry, secretary of Los Angeles was present and places were of course provided for the host and hostess and the members of their family, including Miss Sargent, cousin of Mr. McDill, who manufactured the beautiful birthday cake presented to Dr. Weidensall, which was decorated with his initials and the figures "86."

Later in the evening other friends came in to tender congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Johnston, E. D. Sims, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe A. Goodsell, Misses Flora Meatyard, Mary B. Sieber, Elizabeth K. Gardner, Messrs. M. Maxfield and David Davison, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Watts of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Rex C. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Pargellis of Eagle Rock.

Though frail in body, Dr. Weidensall's mind has been in no degree impaired by his years, and he responded to the greetings of his friends with a wonderful and optimistic speech.

"Uncle Robert," as he is affectionately called by "Y" men all over the world, has lived to see the associations of North America grow from their infancy when he entered the work in 1868, to 2120 at the present time, with a total membership now of 950,000.

Beginning his Y. M. C. A. work in the construction camps of the Union Pacific railway as it was being projected through to the Pacific coast, he has been a pioneer in the leading forms of association. He organized the first eleven state committees and brought them to a condition of efficiency. He adapted the Y. M. C. A. plan to the needs of boys and men in various walks of life, in this way originating the railroad and students' departments. He is known as the "father of county Y work." He has also taken a large part in the development of the international work.

Dr. John R. Mott says of him: "He has spent all these years dealing with the indestructible part of young men, the so-called spiritual side."

"Uncle Robert" has just completed a nation-wide trip during which he has met with the employed Y workers everywhere, emphasizing the fundamental principles of the association and rallying them to a forward-looking program. He returns shortly to his alma mater at Gettysburg, Pa., where a student Y. M. C. A. building will be dedicated in his honor.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS HOLD MEETING

The Royal Neighbors held a very entertaining meeting Thursday night at the K. of P. hall, corner Park avenue and Brand boulevard. One of the main features of the evening was a box social in which each lady brought a box lunch for two. Instead of auctioning off the boxes, the ladies were auctioned off via the showstalls, and in this manner about $15 was raised.

Games were enjoyed, followed by a musical program which included "An Old Fashioned Garden," given by four of Pearl Keller's pupils, Ruth Coker, Margaret Baruch, Eleanor and Mildred Thompson. Mr. Mose rendered a piano solo and his sister, Miss Mose, sang a vocal solo. Mildred Thompson then gave a pretty solo dance entitled "Dapper Dan." After this splendid program, general dancing was enjoyed.

The evening's entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Edgar Coker who was assisted by Mrs. O. Thompson.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

Jimmy, who had just learned to read, was looking over his collection of valentines. He puzzled over the letters T-O-M-Y-L-O-V-E, and then went to his mother and said: "Mother, I must have got the wrong valentines. These all say 'Tommy Love' instead of 'Jimmy Love!'"

A five-year-old who was on the train going to Seattle asked her mother as they neared their destination: "Mother, who is this 'Attie' we are going to see?"

Little Edwin—Mamma can tell things by looking at people's hands.

Visitor—Indeed, is she a palmet? "Little Edwin—Every time she looks at my hands she tells me to go and wash them."

O. W. E. Cooke, Director of American C. of C. Mexico City to Attend

Mr. O. W. E. Cooke, a graduate of the University of Southern California in 1908, and at the present time director of the American Chamber of Commerce in Mexico City, will represent that institution at the Pan-American Conference to be held in connection with the inauguration of President R. B. von Kleinsmid, of the University of Southern California, on April 27, 28 and 29. Mr. Cooke, after leaving the University of Southern California, took his Master's degree from Yale. After serving as an administrator in educational matters in this country, he assumed the directorship of the American Chamber of Commerce in Mexico City. He is also secretary of the Mexican American Scholarship Foundation. The purpose of the Foundation is to cultivate more friendly relationships between the two countries by means of educational relations. Mr. Cooke is very close to the Mexican government and will speak on the Development of American Business in Mexico at the conference. He is, perhaps, the best known American in the Mexican capital.

The representative of the government of Panama, the Honorable Ernesto Lefevre, charge d'affaires, will represent that country at the Pan-American Conference to be held at the university on April 27, 28 and 29 in connection with the inauguration of President R. B. von Kleinsmid. Mr. Lefevre was the president of the Republic of Panama in 1920, and one of the outstanding statesmen of that country.

Mr. Lewis B. Reed, the oldest alumnus of New York university, graduating from the university in the class of 1843, will present that university at the inauguration of President R. B. von Kleinsmid. He is probably the oldest living man who has graduated from a college in this country.

Word was received from the legation of Bolivia at Washington that Mr. Lewis Lerado of Oakland, Calif., will represent Bolivia at the conference.

OXFORD LAW PROFESSOR

Through the generosity of an alumnus of the University of California, reported to the regents at their regular April meeting held at the California School of Fine Arts, President David P. Barrows announced that it would be possible to bring to the university for a semester Sir Paul Vinogradoff, Corpus Professor of Jurisprudence at Oxford University, England.

Professor Vinogradoff is a native of Russia. While a professor in Moscow, he exerted himself for the spread of instruction in Russia, founded the Moscow Pedagogical Society, and acted as the chairman of the educational committee in the city of Moscow. He resigned his chair in Moscow in consequence of a conflict with bureaucratic authorities, and came to England, where he resumed his interrupted studies in English social and legal history. He was elected to the Corpus chair of jurisprudence in 1905. Sir Paul holds degrees from Oxford, Durham, Cambridge, Harvard, Liverpool, Calcutta, and Berlin universities.

Wise is the man who is willing to climb down off his dignity long enough to do his duty.

"VOLSTEAD DELIGHT" BONBONS, SEIZED IN NEW YORK RAID, BIG BROADWAY HIT

Following the arrest of six alleged bootleggers in New York city, John D. Appleby, leader of the raiders, sampled some of the confiscated "Volstead Delights." Said "Delights" were heavily loaded with a liquid that made a big hit along Broadway. But Appleby wasn't stingy. He shared some of the booze-laden bonbons with Miss Elsie Brand, his secretary—merely to get her opinion, of course.

WHITE RATS ARE DAINTY EATERS

SEATTLE, Wash., April 21.—That moth-eaten gag about the husband denying his wife's request for the purchase of a package of rat-biscuit with the remark "If those rats can't eat what we have, let them go without," is being revived on the University of Washington campus.

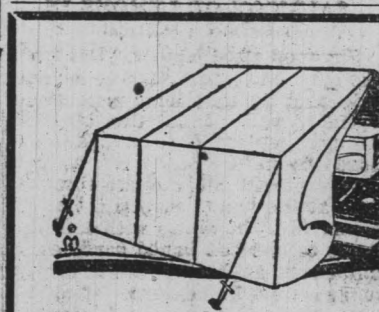

Miss Martha Koehne is experimenting with white rats to determine just what foods help the rat most, and are therefore most beneficial to human beings. The test is a part of the laboratory work of the school or home economies.

Miss Koehne has discovered several interesting things about foods as fed to rats. A rodent fed on bread, meat and potatoes will live to be two and a half months old, when the regular life of a rat is three years. But give the little fellow a balanced diet of starch foods, green vegetables, fruit, skimmed milk, butter-fat, meat and salt, and he'll be normal and healthy. Necessary items omitted from the ration seriously affect the rat's health. Miss Koehne says that these omissions are common ones for human beings, who as a rule do not eat a balanced ration as a regular thing. Poorly nourished rats gradually die of malnutrition.

The food given the rats is powdered and thoroughly mixed so that all the different kinds are consumed, and the rodents given as much as they can consume. The undernourished and well-nourished rats consume about the same amount of food.

White rats are used because they occupy less space than other animals, reach maturity quicker, and multiply rapidly. Observation of the rat tests is a regular part of the home economic course, and many a husband will have a wife who trained to find her way to his heart via his stomach by watching how a rat grew on the same stuff she is feeding him.

STATE PACKERS TO FIGHT THE TRUST

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—California fruit canners today entered the fight to keep the "big five" Chicago packers out of the fruit canning business.

Thirteen canners, growers and packers associations have joined in opposition to the motion made this week in the supreme court of the District of Columbia for modification of the consent decree whereby Chicago packers are enjoined from continuing in the fruit canning business, according to a statement issued today by Preston McKinney, vice president of the Canners league of California.

The Canners league of California, Dried Fruit association of California, California Prunes & Apricot Growers' association, California Fruit Distributors, California Peach & Fig association, Superior California Citrus exchange and several commercial bodies and smaller farmers' organizations are among those opposing the packers.

The Lord meant brothers to be a horrible warning to a girl, but it doesn't seem to make a bit of difference when another fellow comes along.

When it finally dawns upon a man that he knows nothing about an automobile and probably never will, he begins to really take pleasure in his car.

The Silent Hour

Living in a Garden of Roses, we think little of the day when the petals must fall.

Steeped in the Sunshine of Life, we pause not to contemplate the dreariness of storms.

Filled with the joy of Songbirds of Happiness, the desolation of Silence terrifies us not at all.

Then, when the flowers of beauty have faded, the Sunshine of a loved life is gone—the lip song of a dear voice is stilled, and vast tracts of emptiness and silence are before us, we turn appealingly to those who have travelled these strange pathways—whose understanding reaches out and comforts, whose willingness to help is evinced by preparedness—whose profession is an indication of a sincere desire to serve Mankind.

It is the Silent Hour, when hand meets hand outstretched in comfort.

THE EVENING STORY

SHOWERS

(Copyright, 1921, by W. J. Werner)

The engagement of Ruth Campbell and Glenn Gregory took place by surprise. No one had even dreamed of such a thing until Ruth invited her friends in and literally let the cat out of the bag. Red paper bags holding black cats with the secret printed upon them were the favors, and probably no luncheon party had ever had more amusing ones.

"How did it happen?" Ruth was asked over and over. But she only smiled, blushed and shook her head.

It was Miss Springer who told all about it. Miss Springer was already making Ruth's wedding clothes, for Glenn, being a young widower with a small daughter very much in need of a mother and a house full more in need of a housekeeper, had urged a speedy marriage.

"Of course Ruth went to school with him and like of that," related Miss Springer, "but he'd never sought her out for any special attention. Then after Ruth's grandmother Lewis went to live with them Glenn called on the old lady. He had always been very fond of her. Of course he met Ruth, and that started it. He wrote to her after he went away, and she wrote back, and so it kept going till he proposed. He's an awful nice fellow, Glenn is. He comes of a nice family, and Ruth's a nice girl. Of course, my preference wouldn't be for a warm-over man, but then everybody to his taste, as the old woman said when she kissed her cow."

With only a month before, the wedding Ruth's friends were determined not to lose a minute. Evelyn Taylor suggested a shower. Of course, Ruth must be showered. All brides-to-be were showered.

"Let's make it a lingerie shower," Evelyn said. "Poor dear, she won't have time to make all the pretty things she needs, so we'll just give them to her."

The date of the shower was settled upon and then there was a great scurrying to find appropriate offerings. No expense was spared. The big Taylor house was set for the scene, with all the care and ingenuity of which Evelyn and her strong, competent mother and her friends were capable.

When Ruth entered the house that night she found a maze of lights, flowers, and music. Mrs. Plum, the caterer, supplied the menu. There was much laughter and merrymaking. Then Ruth was told to pull a pink ribbon beside her plate. At the end of that ribbon were fastened many narrow ribbons, and each one of the narrow ribbons was a trail which led to the discovery of a gift. Upstairs and down she went, even into the attic. When she had collected her gifts she was weary, but overwhelmed. There were clocked hose, hand-made lingerie, embroidered handkerchiefs, wonderful table linen, monogrammed towels and pillow cases.

"Oh, girls! girls!" she murmured. "How good you are to me!"

Next day the newspapers had a column account of the affair. Ruth read it in bed. She had a bad headache. That afternoon the telephone bell tinkled and Ruth, summoned to the instrument, was invited to another shower. This time it was Carol Dixon.

"Another shower!" said Mrs. Campbell. "Dear me!"

"And all that trying on to be done Thursday, too," murmured Mrs. Campbell.

Ruth stood for hours trying on her dresses, and then she went home to get ready for the shower. She had no time to rest.

The second shower was quite as successful and more novel in its way than the first. A great package was brought into the drawing room and Ruth was set to unpacking it. First came a great aluminum kettle. Within that kettle was another, and on and on through a diminishing scale to a kitchen spoon which was really all that the last receptacle could hold.

Ruth was even more tired from this shower than from the other, but she could not take time to stay in bed, for the wedding preparations were at their height. Although it was to be a home wedding much detail was involved.

Ruth, the young matron pleaded. This time it was a glass shower. But the great feature of the evening was, an immense mound of strawberry ice cream with a charming confection kewpie right in the centre.

"I shall never want any more ice cream as long as I live," confided Ruth. "The man made a mistake and sent more than was ordered and we had to eat it to save it."

Ruth could not try on her dresses next day. She was quite sick. But she would not for worlds let her kind hostess know. So when a fourth shower was announced too precipitately she braced herself, martyr-like, to attend.

The Morse girls gave this shower, which began with a six-course dinner and ended with Master Raymond Dodge marching down stairs to the strains of a wedding march, dressed like a cupid and carrying a huge bouquet from which dangled innumerable small gifts in silver.

Next day, Miss Springer insisted on some important fittings. It was the date set for the bridesmaid's dinner. Ruth lived through it somehow, but she was informed at least twice during the evening that she looked like a ghost.

Scarcely had she recovered, with the doctor's aid, when Agnes Phelps announced a fifth shower. This was to be the biggest affair of all, for the Phelps were wealthy and had, what Miss Springer called, "cuddled ideas."

That night Ruth rubbed a little rouge on her pale cheeks. There were the most wonderful things to eat, and the gifts were all of linen. That night also Ruth had an attack of mingled indignation and nerves. The doctor came in haste.

"This girl is on the verge of a breakdown," he said, sternly. "What could you have been thinking of, Carrie?" to Mrs. Campbell, who was his wife's dearest friend. "We couldn't prevent the showers," sighed Mrs. Campbell.

"Showers, indeed!" he roared the doctor. "It's the first chance to have a social good time these young chits have had in a year and they have made the most of it. Your daughter has been the victim. She has been literally showered to death."

The wedding was set for a week from that day. But there could be no wedding. "But there could be no wedding," said the doctor. "Ruth would be out of bed in a week."

Such a wail as went up from Carol and Evelyn and the rest when the invitations were recalled.

"The idea! And we were all ready for another shower. Isn't it too bad?" moaned Carol.

Perfect rest, seclusion and plain, nourishing food did wonders for Ruth, who was a healthy girl. The day before the date set for the wedding, Glenn came and they were married without any formalities in the presence of a few witnesses. Glenn made arrangements for a month to be passed along at a friend's camp in the mountains. It was 24 hours before the girls knew what had happened.

"To think that we were cheated out of that perfectly beautiful wedding!" murmured Evelyn. "And we so looked forward to it."

"Well," Carol sighed, "I suppose one of us better get engaged to somebody. Why don't you take Hal Hall, Ev? Then we could have a perfectly brilliant system of showers. We seem to have got into the habit of having showers."

And though she had never dreamed of such a thing till that moment this is just what Evelyn did.

VALUABLE PAPERS FOUND.

Twenty-two volumes of manuscript of the minutes of the city council and board of aldermen of San Francisco covering the years 1851-1855 have been found in Lima, Peru, according to C. E. Chapman, professor California history in the University of California. Dr. Chapman just received a letter from Dr. W. E. Dunn, commercial attaché of the United States at Lima, telling of the finding of the California manuscripts in the Peruvian capital. The documents are in possession of Senor Costa Laurent, chief of the section of railway statistics of the ministry of Fomento.

In view of the loss sustained in the San Francisco fire, this collection of documents ought to be invaluable for the study of those extremely important years 1851-1855, in the annals of San Francisco.

Keen Edged Smellers Defy Mint Disguise and Detect Guilty

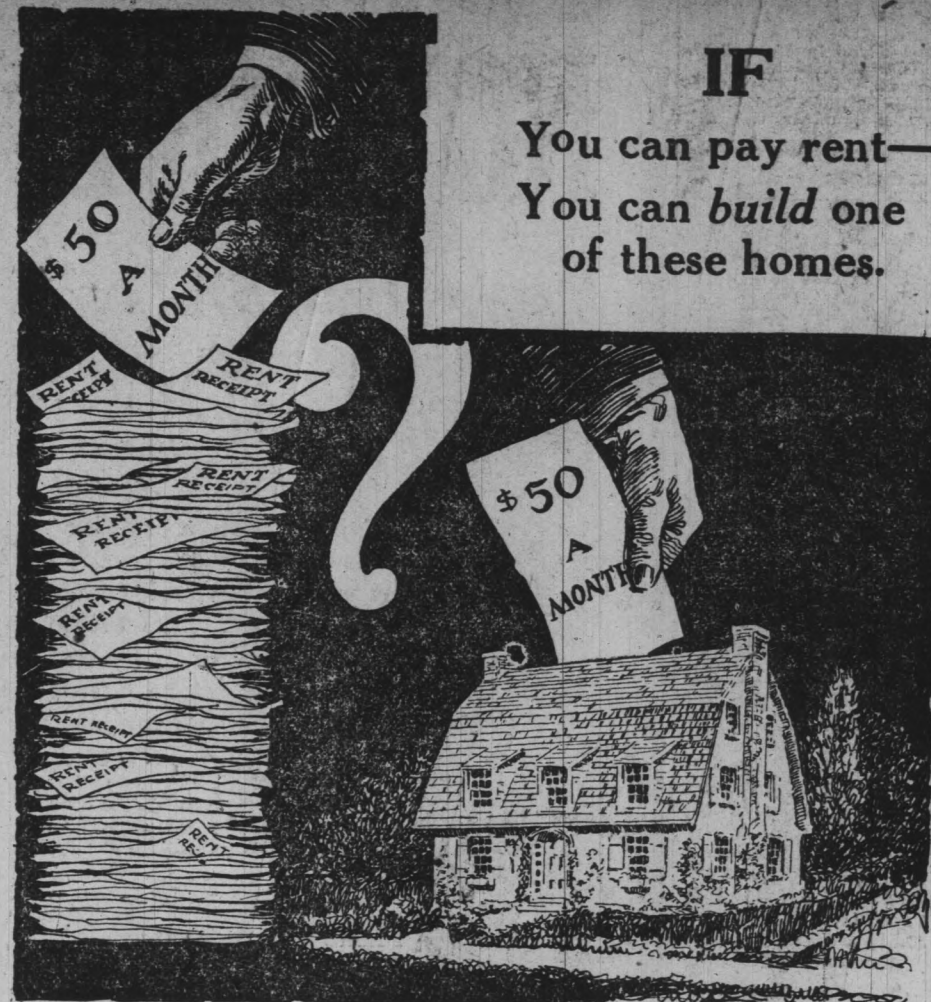

BERKELEY, Calif., April 21.—Enter the latest college sleuth.

He is the "liquor sniffer" and he's now officially employed at the University of California. His business—and there are several of the gumshoe sniffers—consists of going to the college dances, and sniffing the breaths of the dancers—men and women.

In case any alcohol waverings are smellable, the student in question will be called up on the carpet, and asked to explain "How come?" The students employed have a very keen sense of smell, and that mints and the other breath-killers can't fool them.

"You say your mistress is away? I suppose she would not object to my taking a few scenes in her grounds?" said a film producer.

"I don't suppose so," said the trusty servant, "but you musn't come round afterward bothering her to buy the photographs!"

LEADING ACTORS AT GENOA ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

BARTHAN LLOYD GEORGE JOSEPH COOK

RATHENAU TCHITCHERIN POINCARE

Momentous problems affecting the economic normalcy of the world were discussed when statesmen from European nations assembled at Genoa, April 10. Efforts were made to re-establish world trade and money exchange on a pre-war basis. Here you see the statesmen who took the leading roles at the conference. Barthou represented France, carrying out the policies of Premier Poincare. Tchitcherin is Soviet Russia's emissary, Rathenau is Germany's and Sir Joseph Cook looked after the interests of Australia. Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain was the dominating diplomat of the conference.

TAD TELLS A LIVELY STORY

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

"The Headless Hunter?" squawked Bobby Robin, his feather ruffling at the very sound of the name. "The Headless Hunter! Chowee! Why Tommy Peele's woods and fields are our home, the only place we've ever nested in. If some awful enemy is hanging round I'll have to warn our flock to wing along, but we won't know where in the world to wing to. Chirk, chirk! After all the good gossip we've had at Dr. Muskrat's Pond! Oh, its too bad! Who is he? Where did he come from? Where does he perch? Whatever brought him here to spoil our fun?"

"I'm willing to tell you all I know," Tad Coon interrupted him. "as soon as you've finished gabbling." And so he was. All he knew, which wasn't so very much and hadn't been heard so very straight, because you remember he was only half awake and half still dreaming—all he knew and a whole lot more besides. But didn't old Tad feel grand as he settled himself in the old fox lair by the Broad Field and gave out the important news. At least if it had been true it would have been important. "The Headless Hunter is a tremendous bug, like a dragonfly, only big enough to carry off a cow. He hasn't been here yet, but the Grey Gander Flock stopped to tell Dr. Muskrat to look out for him." (You and I know perfectly well they never said so at all.) "He buzzes so deafening loud you can hear him coming a long way off, but you can't get away because he comes too terribly fast. "Fast as lightning! In fact, that's what he is, a great big lightning bug, like the little ones who fly about our marsh, flashing his great big light up in the sky when a storm makes it all dark there. So he can see to go on with his hunting, I s'pose. "He was hatched in the moon, but his wings wouldn't work well—you know young bugs often have bugs bite with; he just flies up close and sucks you in. Oh, he's a terrible creature! That's the way Tad went on.

Now, does that sound to you like an airplane? It's how Tad imagined one, when he'd never seen it. But you ought to have heard Bobby Robin tell it over again.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS ALLEN ANNOUNCED

BURBANK, April 21.—Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Allen announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie, to John C. Winterburg of Artesia. The wedding will take place in June.
Miss Allen is now teaching school in Artesia where she has won many friends. Her acquaintance is not so extended here in Burbank, as her college work, immediately followed by teaching, has taken her from home most of the time since the family has lived here. Mr. Winterburg is the Pacific Electric agent at Artesia.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen in a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

Truths in Epigram

For God's sake give me the young man who has brains enough to make a fool of himself—Stevenson (1859-1894).

MINIMUM WAGES

For recent reduction of the minimum wage for women from $16 to $15 a week, the industrial welfare commission takes full responsibility. This is in fairness to Mrs. Katherine Edson, executive officer of the body. An attempt had been made to ascribe the change to her. She was one of the majority supporting the reduction.

Had the minimum wage as it stood been high, corresponding to war-time conditions, the lowering of it hardly would have provoked dissent. It would be useless to disguise the fact that the justice of the change, in the circumstances, is widely questioned. The possibility of figuring that a woman may for $15 a week keep herself alive, and her ill-nourished form covered, and have a roof over her head, is a matter of academic interest, if any. Everybody knows that the sum is insufficient to support a woman in decent comfort.

It is true that cotton stockings may be had at small cost, that cheap but fragile and unlovely dresses may be purchased at a small price. Also that there are shoes of moderate cost. These articles all are such as a woman of proper pride would decline to wear except under pressure of dire need. They are such as a saleswoman, for example, could not use and still be arrayed so as to meet the public. The mere fact that the new minimum may be endured, though only through hardship and humiliation, is not to be accepted as an argument in its favor. The person of either sex, whose life must be devoted to toil, is conscious of being wronged when the utmost the toil provides is the privilege of remaining alive; not well clad, not adequately sheltered, not sustained by proper food, not free to seek diversion, not allowed to save for the emergency of sickness or loss of a job; just to remain alive.

Doubtless many of the women affected by the scale are young and still in the parental home. There it is possible they are not required to pay any part of the household expenses. A girl so situated, with all her pay for herself, may find $15 a week enough, even, if she is thoughtful, laying aside a portion of it. The average woman wage-earner not only must support herself, but is likely to have dependents. To say that such a worker should be satisfied with a limit of $15 a week, is to ignore a mass of facts familiar to all who have to meet daily bills.

MEN OUT OF WORK

Most happily the conditions of unemployment in this country are less distressing, and all the time growing better. Productivity in many lines is close to normal. There is much construction work, and more is projected. In discussion of conditions it is probable that many unfair things have been said, perhaps nothing more obviously unjust than this: "A large percentage of the workless are idle from choice." The sentence is extracted from a recent editorial paragraph.

It is true that just now there are strikes in important industries. Men who might be at work, were they to agree to conditions, have chosen to lay down their tools. Doubtless a large proportion of them did so in compliance with orders that they obeyed with more or less reluctance. Often the individual worker is not to be blamed for the mistakes of his superior. He regards the principle of unionism so highly that he supports it even at the cost of hardship to himself.

The unfairness cited lies in the fact that the problem of unemployment, as this country has had to deal with it, bore no relation to strikes. The striker, whose job was ready when he chose to return to it, is not to be reckoned as a factor in the situation. The community does not feel the impulse to hustle him a job. Strikers aside, almost all the men who are not working are seeking work. There are idle classes who desire to belong to no other class. Some are so rich they feel no need of effort, and others so constituted that the life of the vagrant appeals to them. Both classes are loafers, doing harm in different ways. Every community also has its inefficient, men not capable of earning a living. The great mass of humanity realizes the necessity and the beneficence of working. They are not beggars, not thieves, not willingly cut off from the chance to toil regular hours for fair pay.

THE LIE DETECTOR

There is now a mechanism said to be capable of detecting a lie. Applied in some manner to the person suspected of being a liar, it registers his emotions, and from these his morals are deduced. It is said to have worked successfully in case of a forger. The guilt of the man had been established by evidence in advance of the experiment. Perhaps this suggested the verdict later rendered by the appliance.

With all respect for the marvels of invention, the opinion is ventured that this contraption is worthless. It is to be deemed of value only on the theory that the telling of a lie acts as an excitation to the circulatory system, which obviously is nonsense. The chronic liar could not be inwardly thrilled by an act habitual to himself, and a part of his daily routine. There are people who lie so fluently that in all probability they are not always conscious of it. Were they to discover themselves telling the actual truth, it is likely their hearts would give an extra jump. This the machine would record as proving the falsity of the truth.

There hardly is a criminal trial unmarked by perjury. The cross questioning lawyer may know that he is facing a perjurer, but he quite unable to shake the equanimity of the witness. The witness does not blush or stammer, or in any manner appear ill at ease. Were the machine applied to him probably it would receive not the slightest impression, while an impression, if caught, would be meaningless.

For a certain line of activity the ability to lie constitutes the entire capital of the operator. Lacking such ability there could be no sales of bogus gold bricks, and no bets on horses that never ran. Attached to a genuine bunko man, the machine, if subjected to agitation in the presence of falsehood, would be shaken to bits. Nothing of the sort has happened yet.

INTERNATIONAL CHEMISTRY

Take plain water, most harmless in all ordinary relations, and combine it with sulphuric acid. An explosion follows. There are many elements in themselves innocuous that cannot withstand contact with some other element. It is possible to discern an analogy in this to the relationships of certain racial associations. Could the Teutonic and the Slavic mix without disaster? The question, off hand, would be answered in the negative. At least the experiment would suggest perils so great that the powers would hesitate to permit a test. The resulting explosion might shake Europe.

That nations do not trust one another, each being aware perhaps of its own defects of character, and thus rendered suspicious, is a circumstance to be deplored. Yet it exists, and has to be considered. Soviet Russia and Germany cannot trust each other. Even though they enter into a compact, there could be no reason for believing in the good faith of either. Germany corrupted and undermined the old Russia. It used for this purpose the very bolsheviks it now undertakes to receive into partnership. They betrayed Germany before. Doubtless they stand ready to betray it again.

Nevertheless while Teuton and Slav preserved the form of unity and common purpose, they might constitute a grave danger. Each with a readiness little less than eager would blow the other off the map if in such course profit seemed to be attainable. If neither found the opportunity, and for policy's sake remained faithful to compact agreement, then the rest of the world would have to be on guard.

MR. WILSON'S INFLUENCE

Ex-President Wilson has written a letter in denunciation of Senator Reed of Missouri. He desired to correct the impression that he favored the candidacy of the Missourian. There can be no doubt that he succeeded in correcting it.

The incident is interesting chiefly as it will be a test of the influence of Mr. Wilson. The ex-President, it has been affirmed, is in politics still. This statement usually has brought out denial from some source not necessarily well informed. The letter touching the Reed campaign proves distinctly that if Mr. Wilson is not in politics, he is on the outskirts and has an eye on that which goes on inside.

Mr. Wilson has a fine command of English. When he desires to say a thing he knows how to say it in a way that does not lend itself to misinterpretation. There is no chance of misunderstanding. His activity in a matter so remote as the senatorship of a middle western state shows that he does not forget, and that if ever he forgives, the gracious rule has been waived on this particular occasion.

Doubtless Senator Reed will seek to overcome the Wilson opposition, probably by the method of assuming that the opposition could not hurt him, or even that it might be a help. But despite such attitude, the real effect, or lack of effect, will show in election returns.

WHY EUROPE CANNOT PAY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

There is a large part of the American people who are living in the delusion that Europe ought to pay the United States what she owes.

That seems a very simple proposition.

The nations of Europe came to us in their distress and borrowed money. Now they ought to pay it back. And when they say they cannot we are disposed to be peeved.

Americans are people of sound common sense, and as soon as they understand the situation they will see the absurdity of the above notion.

And the situation is this. Nobody can pay with what they do not have. All that Europe has is its products, such as agricultural and manufactured goods.

The European nations would gladly pay us in these things, but we have very bristling tariff walls, and declare that European goods shall not be sent into the United States. Thus we prevent Europe from paying in the only way she can possibly pay.

We demand payment in gold. Yet the United States has two-thirds of the gold in the world. There is not enough gold in all the world outside of the United States to pay a fraction of the debts which Europe owes to us. Hence the demand that foreign nations should pay us in gold is entirely absurd.

M. Louis Loucheur, former French minister of reconstruction, in an address before the Industrial Agricultural and Commercial association at Lyons the other day, stated the thing clearly.

"In my opinion," he said, "we can never repay one sou to America. I make this statement because there are Americans here tonight who I hope will cable my words to the people of the United States."

And in the same speech he gave in one sentence the gist of the whole matter as follows: "America holds all the gold, and we cannot pay her in goods because of the American customs barriers."

The Old World is producing constantly, and if goods were allowed to flow freely from one country to another all debts might be cleared up. But the position of America, who sits on her pile of gold and says to the nations of Europe that they are dishonest because they won't pay her, is not rational.

If a man owes $5 and hasn't any money wherewith to pay we will take his cow and his automobile, and get what we can out of it. But when a nation owes us money, and having none offers us cows and automobiles, the politicians will not let the government accept such things, and then we call our well-meaning debtors dishonest.

THE LISTENING POST

Most of our information of the spirit world seems to be coming from across the water. Sir Oliver Lodge was with us not long ago and now Dr. Doyle is conducting personal excursions.

We do not know whether Sir Oliver and Doctor Doyle are disseminating their beliefs gratuitously or for pay.

We take it the latter. Which makes us at once doubt the messages being given us.

Although, according to Doctor Doyle, there is most everything in the spirit world that there is here.

In a kind of etherized form. Etherized bodies and buildings and amusements and the like.

So there may be etherized money.

But neither Sir Oliver nor the Doctor are so far spiritualized, we take it, that they are at present receiving spiritualized money.

They prefer the real, hard, material cash.

Doctor Doyle was long popular with many of us as an author of detective stories.

Highly imaginative and interesting. And now he has passed to the scheme of highly imaginative stories dealing with the unseen world.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Canadian Boat-Song—By Thomas Moore (1779-1852)

Faintly as tolls the evening chime
Our voices keep tune and our oars keep time.
Soon as the woods on the shore look dim,
We'll sing at St. Ann's our parting hymn.
Row, brothers, row, the stream runs fast,
The rapids are near and the daylight's past.

Why should we yet our sail unfurl?
There is not a breath the blue wave to curl,
But, when the wind blows off the shore,

Oh, sweetly we'll rest our weary oar.
Blow, breezes, blow, the stream runs fast,
The rapids are near and the daylight's past.

Utawas' tide! this trembling moon
Shall see us float over surges soon.
Saint of this green isle! hear our prayers,
Oh, grant us cool heavens and favoring airs.
Blow, breezes, blow, the stream runs fast,
The rapids are near and the daylight's past.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

"Tapping the subconscious" is getting to be a regular parlor amusement. Faking is barred, of course.

No "mechanical lie detector" can excel the parental strap.

Efforts to demonstrate that any one person has a cinch on the senatorship represent wasted energy.

Detroit caused a 50 per cent slump in automobile accidents by sending speeders to jail. The plan ought to be tried in this community.

People are pretty mean to be sure. When a film actress is rescued from peril they always suspect that her press agent did it.

When ex-President Wilson takes his pen in hand the chap he writes about is likely to become conscious that something has hit him.

There is said to be a plot to kill Lenin. It is not unlikely. His conduct has not been such as to endear him to the populace.

Pro-German American journalists of bolshevik tendency seem quite elated over the understanding between their favored nations.

From the published list of Hearst publications the San Francisco Call and the Los Angeles Herald seem to have been omitted.

When the Los Angeles chief of police threatens to resign some interest is aroused, and conjectures are made as to whether he means it.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

CONGRESS RIDING FOR A FALL
[New York Commercial]

Evidence that a breach between the President and Congress cannot much longer be avoided is growing every day, and when it comes it will be growing that the people of the country are with the President. The latest idea of fanaticism, or whatever it may be, that proposes to reduce the army to 115,000 men asked for by the President, and which he and Secretary Weeks and General Pershing regard as the irreducible minimum, will, it is carried through, encounter a Presidential veto. The President, through the war department officials have gone into this matter with care and judgment with all the facts before them, but the fanatics in congress seem to think they know better and arbitrarily clip off 35,000 men regardless of consequences.

As a mere police force to guard United States property it is difficult to see how the country can get along with even such a small force as 165,000 men. As if this were not enough the irritation is being carried still further by designating where these men shall be placed, although for that matter the President could very properly ignore such restrictions, as he is the constitutional head of the army and there is nothing in the constitution anywhere that gives congress the power to make such restrictions. Add to this the bonusiasco and it can be seen how the lines of divergence are steadily widening. It requires no keenness of insight to divine that the President has the sympathy of the people while congress is a source of dissatisfaction and discontent.

THE "IMPOSSIBLE" DE VALERA
[John Devoy in the Gaelic American]

The writer of this article has known and dealt at close range with every Irish leader for the past half-century, but he has never met one so impracticable, self-willed, stubborn and incapable of winning other men to his views, or of conciliating the differences of opinion, as De Valera. De Valera

If the newspaper accounts of his lectures are accurate, it is all rather tragically pitiful.

That a man who has attained such high place should babble of etherized buildings and bricks and cigars and the like.

It is like looking upon the wreck of a once wonderful structure.

When there is so much work to do in the world. When there are so many hungry to be fed. So many needy to be consoled.

So much hatred to be softened. So many differences to be reconciled.

How sad that minds should babble of the unseen, the unknown, the unknowable and the ethereal.

We need today real men and women. Real work to be done by them. Real food to be eaten by them.

Real religion and philosophy to be applied by them.

We need nothing less than mouthing and babbings of rappings and shadows and ethers, and effluvia and essence.

It is to be regretted that the Doctor did not stick to his detective stories.

And refrain from further unsettling and disturbing minds that were none too stable before.

JAMES W. FOLEY

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Awhile ago it was the ouiji board. Now that seems to have been forgotten. There are newer wonders and more impressive signs. People tap the cosmic consciousness. They have various methods of doing this. Some resort to the medium, who for $2 throws a fit and for $5 indulges in a spasm. Thus the medium taps the cosmic consciousness, and out of it flow streams, not exactly of knowledge, but of something mystic, entrancing it in its subtle appeal to the half-baked intellect.

Lately a man has been drawing sweet concord out of the richly stored "cosmic consciousness." He does this by means of a piano upon which he plays with marvelous and sympathetic touch. Lots of people play the piano fairly well, but they have to study. This man will affirm that he never studied, that he does not know one note from another, that personally he is unable to play upon anything but human credulity. But he sits at the piano, places his fingers anywhere on the keyboard, and cosmic consciousness does the rest. Doubtless much of musical genius has been carried into the habit of cosmic consciousness, and some of it is glad to seep back to this plane.

Blind Tom, the colored pianist of a generation ago, was an idiot. He babbled somewhat, it is true, never, however, of cosmic consciousness. But lead him to a piano and he would play classic music until somebody led him away again. That must have been cosmic consciousness doing a double stunt for it had to supply the player brains as well as nimble fingers.

The story that the Rev. Gibson confessed to the Durrant murders that occurred in San Francisco in the nineties seems to be about the most persistent of fictions. It appears to be current once more.

As the tale has it, the confession was a deathbed affair. It was being told before Gibson had had a deathbed experience, and while he still was a respected preacher with a devoted following. He was active in the ministry to the last.

There never was a clearer case of guilt than Durrant's.

In a recent editorial touching upon the career of the late General Harrison Gray Ois, the name of the journalist appeared as "General Harrison."

This was one of the errors not to be explained by the writer or the proof reader. They just happen, indicative of a fleeting mental lapse, perhaps, but they do happen.

It is rather a reflection upon journalism that any paper should keep its readers informed as to the whereabouts and conduct of a certain notorious woman.

Enough to say that other people of her class cross the street when they see a policeman coming, and do not get into print outside the petty court records.

For threatening to kill a representative of the dry forces in New York, a newspaper man of that provincial city is in jail.

Irritation at the absence of a drink seldom leads a man of intelligence so far astray.

Not knowing Philip Riley of Oakland it is impossible to state why a trio of kidnappers took him away and tarred and feathered him the other night.

Of course if it is possible for a man to deserve tar and feathers, and he receives the application, there would remain little for him to do but fade from the community.

If Riley did not deserve the treatment, but permits the incident to remain at its present status, he will be likely to lose favor. The victim of tar and feathers who failed to make a zealous effort to kill the offending ruffians, would lack some of the qualities essential to a real human being.

Twenty-three years ago an energetic man came west as far as Spokane with the intention of growing up with the country. He was 77 at the time, a period at which many less buoyant of spirit consider their growth completed.

He has just passed away a few months more than a century old. It is apparent that his hunch had been a good one.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Old Tom Smith says that an easy expense account has been the ruin of many a young man. He found it so, he says. For years he traveled for the Stone Hatchet Tool company a good deal like the Prince of Wales went through India, except that he had no elephants.

"Plenty of tigers, though," says Old Tom. "Both blind and striped."

Then this little spell of hard times which we have been enjoying came on, and Tom drew a layoff. The Stone Hatchet couldn't afford to keep a man on the road who didn't sell enough to pay for the pink soap used in the bridal suites he always took at the hotel. Tom had forgotten all about saving enough money to rest on and so he had to go to work. After he had tried—and failed—to get a lot of jobs that sized up to his standing, he went out to sell bent hairpins on commission.

"My expense account," said he, "was $5 a day and my railroad tickets."

He once spent that much in cigars. For awhile he spent his own money—The money he had saved merely because he had been so busy spending someone else's money that he had had no time to spend his own—but by and by it occurred to him that there is singularly little nutrition in that sort of thing. So he lived on his $5.

"I know what a 75-cent room looks like, and a 75-cent bed feels like, and how handy a handbag gets just before you get into the smoking car and pull out the old pipe." But the funny thing is that I began to get a new idea of the value of money."

He used to go back to the factory after each trip with a lot of new ideas. The 50-cent meals took the pouches out from beneath his eyes. Toting the handbag gave him muscle and spicing in his heels. He became such a valuable employee—and his enthusiasm so mounted—that he began to take his pay in stock. The only money he cost the outfit was his $5 a day and tickets.

"Now," he said, "I'm on my way to becoming a fairly well-to-do man."

The other day the Stone Hatchet people wanted him back. They told him, frankly, that as a salesman de luxe they were glad to get rid of him, but as a fifty-center they would offer more pay and an unlimited expense account.

"I may take it," said he. "But fifty-centering around this country has taught me how to handle money and myself. I'll not get soft again."

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

Tomato wilt causes an annual loss of more than 115,000 tons of tomatoes in the middle Atlantic, Gulf and lower Mississippi states.

Approximately 4,750,000 tons of wheat feeds are annually produced by flour mills in the United States. It would require 237,500 twenty-ton cars, or a train about 1800 miles long, to transport this material.

Aluminum with 11 to 14 per cent of silicon yields an alloy which is lighter than aluminum itself, stronger, more resistant, and more suitable for casting than known aluminum alloys.

FIRST PHOTO OF MINERS WALKING OUT AT SCRANTON

Here is the first authentic picture of coal miners walking out on strike at Scranton, Pa. Because, they say, the operators declined to negotiate new working agreements with them, they laid down their tools along with thousands of other workers. Practically 4500 anthracite and bituminous mines in twenty states now are idle because of the strike. Approximately 550,000 men are affected. A sufficient supply of coal to last three months is above ground, officials of the mines have announced, and the effects of the strike probably will not be felt for some time to come.

OHIO TO PASS ON HARDING

Vote for Congressman, Senator and Governor Will Show Attitude

COLUMBUS, O., April 21.—Ohio will be called on, in the coming congressional campaign, to pass judgment on its favored son—President Harding.

Party leaders, picking Ohio for the political battleground, agree that the vote on congressman, senator and governor will determine the degree of popular approval in Ohio of the Harding administration.

Further interest in the situation is caused by the possibility that former Governor James M. Cox, defeated by Harding for the Presidency, will take the stump in Ohio and Massachusetts.

Democrats, hoping for a turn against the Republican sway in Ohio, are confident they will succeed in cutting materially the large plurality piled up in November, 1920, and carry into office at least part of their congressional and state tickets.

They declare that Marion, President Harding's home town, repudiated his administration in the elections last November when a Democratic mayor replaced the Republican incumbent. They also point to the large gains made throughout the state in electing Democratic mayors.

The issues in Ohio will be clear.

cut—the four-power pact, soldier bonus, tariff and the record of the government the last year. Purely state and local questions have not so far arisen to cloud the national questions.

The personnel of the major parties' tickets is the main matter of conjecture now. Both Republican and Democratic possibilities appear apathetic about announcing their stands. They are awaiting definite action from the other side. Dead lines for filling declarations of candidacies probably will be approached before there is a break in the stubborn fronts of the two sides.

Representatives Fess and Longworth are talked of Republican choices for governor and Senator Pomerene, Dem-Congressman Burton is being boomed for the Senate by the Republicans and Representative Knight probably will enter the fight. Walter F. Brown, Toledo, also is talked of.

SPANISH STRENGTHENED

By the addition of E. C. Hills, Ph. D., Litt. D., professor of Spanish at the University of Indiana as a full professor, the department of Spanish of the University of California will be materially strengthened.

Professor Hills is the editor of many authoritative books on the Spanish language. He is the co-author of the Hills and Ford Spanish grammar which is recognized throughout the United States as a valuable work on the fundamentals of Spanish.

C. E. Kaney, instructor in Spanish at Byrn Marr college has also been added to the staff of the department of Spanish. He is a graduate of Harvard University and before going to Byrn Marr studied in the University of Paris, where he did research work both in French and Spanish.

The work of the department of Spanish has been aided from time to time by the valuable gifts of Mr. J. C. Cebrian of San Francisco of many volumes of Spanish work. The latest gift of such gifts comprises a list of 728 volumes of which more than 100 volumes are on science. There are also works on general literature, history, heraldy and art, and twelve volumes on Spanish music of the sixteenth and eighteenth centuries.

TO GIVE LAW COURSES

Judge A. A. Bruce, professor of law in the university of Minnesota, will give two courses in the Law School at the University of California summer session. Judge Bruce is vice-president of the national committee on uniform state laws and one of the leaders in the fight for the enactment of child labor laws. He will give the course on damages, and the course on suretyship during the six weeks' session.

Judge Bruce was born in Nunda, N. Y., in 1866 and was educated at Bath College, England. On coming to America, he became secretary to justices of the supreme court in Wisconsin. He then became attorney for State Board of Factory Inspectors of Illinois which position he resigned to become Dean of the Law School of the University of North Dakota. He later became Chief Justice of North Dakota.

CRACKING OF PRUNES

Cracking of prunes is apparently due to application of water after the growth of the trees has been checked by a period of light irrigation or drought according to Dr. W. L. Howard, professor of Pomology in the University of California. Dr. Howard was assisted in his experimental work by F. J. Veilmeyer, assistant professor of irrigation, investigations at the University of California.

Objections have been raised to summer application of irrigation water at bloomtime and at the time of maturing of the fruit. Observations of soil moisture at blooming time have, however, shown that a full supply of moisture exists in the soil naturally at that time and no detrimental effect upon the fruit has been found. With ripening fruit there has been no appreciable difference of quality between irrigated and non-irrigated peaches and prunes; nor has any effect upon the amount of cracking of fruit been observed as due to irrigation at this time.

The radio set used for the concert is the property of Charles Lang, who very kindly loaned and installed it for the occasion.

The California Home Extension association has offered to deed a plot of ground at the north end of Pine street and which contains a small hill, to the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce or some other trustee to be used as a cemetery. This offer was brought about through the wish of friends and neighbors of "Daddy" Wornum that his body rest among the hills which he so loved.

The property mentioned is in a most desirable location, and commands a magnificent view of the surrounding country. It is here that it was decided to put "the parson" to rest.

A path to the hilltop is being constructed and fencing has been ordered. A provision of the company's gift is that the proceeds of the sale of lots in the cemetery shall be turned into a fund for its perpetual maintenance.

Ours is one of the oldest financial institutions of the city and we feel for that reason very well acquainted with Glendale and its needs. When we can serve you, give us a call.

THE JUDGMENT

JAMES W. FOLEY

Mebbe it's true, all that fallin' of his,
Mebbe it's true, as you tell me it is.
Mebbe he did, as the sad story goes,
Mebbe he did, as the whole village knows.
And then, mebbe he didn't; it's possible he Aint as bad as the story would make him to be.
I'm willin' to say that he aint a white saint,
Mebbe it's true—and then mebbe it aint.

Mebbe there's fire where there's smoke, I agree Mebbe she is what you claim her to be.
Mebbe she is, with the spot and the taint,
Mebbe she is, and then mebbe she aint.
Mebbe she did, and the thing may be true
That you say or you think, but now how about you?

Mebbe you're white, and as pure as a saint,
Mebbe you are, and then mebbe you aint.

Mebbe I'm wrong, but I'm not sure of that.
Mebbe you're right, when you knock 'em down flat.
Break 'em and damn 'em and knock off the paint,
Mebbe you're right, and then mebbe you aint.
I aint' judgmatic, I don't want to be.
Mercy 's the thing that appeals most to me.
Mebbe I'm wrong and the spot and the taint
Should make me to shudder—and mebbe I aint.

A Year Ago Today

(From Glendale Daily Press, April 21, 1921)

The main topic discussed at the meeting of the high school Parent-Teachers' Association yesterday was the matter of whether or not the girl students shall wear uniforms. Two forms of dress were offered, one the uniform and the other a modified type of dress.

The building permits for the month to date have reached a total of a quarter million dollars.

At a meeting of the Congregation church it was decided by a unanimous vote to erect a new church building.

About 300 members of the local Elks' lodge have placed their orders for suits of Palm Beach cloth to be used as regulation uniforms in the parades during the Grand Lodge session in Los Angeles in July.

TEN NIGHTS IN BAR ROOM FILM TO PLAY HERE

Temperance Movement to Assemble Educators of District at Glendale

Every minister and educator in Glendale and the surrounding district will be invited by William Howe, manager of the Glendale Theatre, to witness the film, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," which will be in Glendale beginning Tuesday, April 25, at 2:30 p. m.

The old temperance play with its series of moral lessons and exhibits of the degeneration through the barroom of other days will bring back to memory scenes once common to every one's sight, now passing from the memory.

To the younger element of the city, who never had within their vision the vicious sights shown in the great old play, it will be startlingly unreal and melodramatic.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom" is now a classic, comparable with Uncle Tom's Cabin, in the literary annals in America. It will be an inspiration to see the old dramatic illustration of one-time conditions.

"If every parent in Los Angeles would see that son and daughter witnessed the picture, 'Ten Nights in a Barroom,' now running in this city, they would be repaid countless fold by the resultant good," stated one of the best known Los Angeles ministers from his pulpit last Sunday, when the discourse of his sermon was "Youthful Waywardness."

"The most famous heart-interest drama the world has ever known," said Florence Lawrence in reviewing this extraordinary film depiction in her column, and readers who have followed this critic knocked by the thousands to enjoy a screen story filled to the overflowing point with love, pathos and clean-cut merit.

Most every adult American, and a large proportion of the juniors, already know the story, but they cannot anticipate its unique treatment, in which some of the foremost screen artists in the country participate.

In a desire to contribute a perpetual success to cinema, a classic to live in the centuries to come, the producing company spent months in planning the work to where "Ten Nights in a Barroom" would be accepted as a creation not to be forgotten in a few short months, but as a contribution to the literature and art of the land. That they have succeeded well in this task is best exemplified by what the five daily papers of Los Angeles said, where the picture had its worldwide premiere.

"A little child shall lead them" has come down through the centuries, and will go on and on for all time.

With it all, "Ten Nights in a Barroom" isn't preachy, but its gripping story is so adroitly presented that a smile and a tear is blended naturally, and in its true simplicity lies its beauty and force.

T. D. & L. SHOW IS UNIQUE AND UNUSUAL

"Her Mad Bargain" With Anita Stewart Leads the Bill

The sensational and unique pictures of the escapes and recapture of Roy Gardner, the much discussed highwayman, which are being shown at the T. D. & L. theatre today, are most unusual and show the many intimate incidents that followed the robbery and culminated in his final lodgment behind the bars. As a novelty offering the Roy Gardner pictures are exceptional and form the first part of an interesting program, which is headed by the feature picture, "Her Mad Bargain," starring Anita Stewart.

In "Her Mad Bargain," the First National attraction, Anita Stewart, the star is seen garbed in the tattered but honorable raiment of an artist's model. The picture was directed by Edwin Carewe, who also made the star's last two pictures. The story was prepared for the screen by Josephine Quirk. Walter McGrall is again Miss Stewart's leading man, and in the balance of the cast are Arthur Edmund Carewe, Gertrude Astor, Helen Raymond, Adele Farrington and Ernest Butterworth.

ILLINOISANS PICNIC

All of the usual attractive features of picnic will be there. This is your picnic and you will make it a success.
